Japanese left protests visit of Enterprise

SASEBO, Japan (AP) — Beaten back trying to invade the U.S. Navy base here, 800 leftist Zengakuren students left Sasebo by train Wednesday. They promised to return for new demonstrations against the visit of the American nuclear-powered aircraft carrier Enterprise.

In Tokyo, about 8,000 Zengakuren students demonstrated in a park near the U.S. Embassy and the residence of the prime minister. About 20 persons were injured when a clash broke out between students and police near the prime minister's home. Others staged a sit-in outside the U.S. Embassy but were removed by the police.

Helmeted students, who arrived from Hakata after a three-hour train ride, used slaves and rocks in a pitched battle with 1,000 police who fought back with fire hoses and tear gas. The incidents, bloodiest in Sasebo's history, took place at Hirase Bridge just outside the base entrance.

By police count, 135 students, police and onlookers were injured. Twenty of them were hospitalized with serious injuries from beatings about the head and body.

Another 500 were treated at a nearby hospital for heavy doses of tear gas.

Twenty-seven students were arrested.

Drenched and beaten after the three-hour battle, the students retreated to Sasebo station and boarded a train back to Hakata, their assembling point.

It was the most violent incident in the series of left-wing demonstrations that has been building up in protest against the arrival of the Enterprise later this week.

The students belong to the "Sampa" faction of Zengakuren

—a faction so violent-prone that even the Communists reject them.

A Sampa spokesman said his group's objective was to "draw public attention to the Enterprise, just as the Zengakuren rioting in 1960 helped force President Eisenhower to cancel a scheduled visit to Japan."

Sasebo, a city of 250,000, took on an agitated air as groups for and against the Enterprise's visit staged rival rallies and argued against each other with loudspeakers at intersections.

General, 12 others die in air crash

MINOT, N.D. (AP) — An Air Force tanker plane crashed shortly after takeoff Wednesday, killing 12 of the 13 airmen aboard, including Maj. Gen. Charles M. Eisenhart.

Eisenhart, 53, was vice commander of the 15th Air Force and a much-decorated commander in the Pacific theater during World War II.

The crash of the KC135 at the Minot Air Force Base also claimed a heavy toll of other high officers from March Air Force Base in California. Among them were three colonels, three lieutenant colonels, a major and a captain. Three enlisted men also perished.

The lone Sp.5 was thrown free of the wreck as it scattered over a 1,500-foot path of snow-covered prairie about a quarter mile from the takeoff area.

Wright was listed in critical condition at John Moses Hospital in Minot, 14 miles south of the Strategic Air Command base in north-central North Dakota.

The tanker, a four-engine jet aircraft usually used to refuel other giant planes in flight, was on a routine staff visit to Minot, a spokesman said.

Officials at the base said the plane apparently was airborne just before the crash. It veered off the left side of the runway and traveled a quarter of a mile before crashing when it burst into flames.

Gen. Charles M. Eisenhart

An official at Minot said there was no way to know what caused the accident.

There was moderate fog and 25-degree temperatures but no wind or precipitation at the time of the crash.

"True," he said, "there are some clouds on the horizon. Prices are rising. Interest rates have passed the peak of 1966; and if there is continued inaction on the tax bill, they will climb higher."

"I warn the nation that the failure to act will sweep us into an accelerating spiral of price increases; a slump in home building; and a continuing erosion of the American dollar."

This would be a tragedy for every American family. And I predict that if it happens they will all let us know about it."

Both at home and abroad, Johnson said, the nation is challenged. But he said it is the national will and not its strength that is being tried, its sense of purpose and not its ability to achieve a better America.

He said that we have the strength to meet every challenge and he believes with an abiding conviction that the American people "have the will to meet the trials these times impose."

Among the trials, of course, is the war in Vietnam. And Johnson said there are marks of progress.

Declaring that aggression never will prevail and that American patience and perseverance will match U.S. power, the President said that:

"But our goal is peace—and peace at the earliest possible moment."

As the core of U.S. policy at this point, Johnson listed the San Antonio foundation. This was a reference to a speech he made Sept. 29 in San Antonio, Tex., in which he said bombings would stop if talks would "take place promptly and with reasonable hopes they would be productive."

It is unusual for the temperature to fall below freezing along the Gulf Coast.

Freak or not, it was just plain cold. In fact, the 12 degrees recorded at Asheville, N.C., Wednesday was one degree lower than Bismarck, N.D.

Record poll

Local consensus: President is trying

STROUDSBURG — The general impression of President Johnson's State of the Union message ranged from calm approval to disbelief during a Pocono Record check with a cross section of Monroe County's population Wednesday night.

Max M. Fleishman, East Stroudsburg — "We seem to be paying more, for more and more, but the president is trying to handle things as best as he can, no sense in fighting him."

Phillip Pasquini, Mountaintop — "There wasn't anything new in it... it is an election year and they can't really do too much."

Mrs. Richard E. Kice, Canadensis — "It was very good. But not very encouraging about the war though. All those things he wants Congress to pass would be nice if they were passed."

Mrs. James D. Kinsley, Pocono Summit — "I hope that what he said has some meaning. It sounded very good, very wonderful, if they can happen."

Thomas L. Kistler, East Stroudsburg — "It's the same thing. The only solution seems to be to spend more money. The thoughts are beautiful and sound good."

J. T. Hauser, Delaware Water Gap — "He covered just about everything. There were some shortcomings, but, it's a big problem."

Mrs. Norman S. Ebert, Snyder'sville — "It was very good and what he said is true and something should be done about it."

Frank E. Randall, East Stroudsburg — "I'm becoming increasingly concerned over the rising cost of both federal and state government. His programs sound good, but I'm worried about his Vietnam policy and the increasing amount of money."

Mrs. Ivor Rhodes, Stroudsburg — "I'm too taken with what he said. I think it was mostly a speech for his own benefit. I was dubious about the whole thing."

Walter Melnikoff of Canadensis — "It was cautious, nothing new or spectacular since it was keyed to the pressures of an election year."

LBJ seeks new tax

Inaction will cause serious depression

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson told the nation Wednesday night it can expect higher taxes, continued progress, the most massive $186 billion spending program in all history, and continued explorations for peace.

There was a call for legislation to "free our gold reserves" without backing off from commitments to maintain the price of gold at $35 an ounce.

Johnson also urged in his State of the Union message, legislation aimed at private employment of 500,000 hard core unemployed in three years.

The President delivered his message in person to a joint Senate-House session, broadcast nationally by television and radio.

He asked for the launching of a 10-year campaign to build six million housing units for low and middle income families.

He urged steps to improve what he called the shocking infant mortality rate in America.

In addition to prodding Congress to pass consumer legislation still left over from the last session, the chief executive suggested a major study of automobile insurance, "new safeguards to insure the quality of fish and poultry, and the safety of our community water supplies."

These and other proposals will be covered in a budget for the 1969 fiscal year, which starts July 1, that will be up $10.4 billion in spending over the current year.

Revenues will come within $8 billion of providing a balanced budget, and that takes into account the tax bill Johnson is insisting is vital to protect the country against inflation.

There was no backing away from the President's bid for a 10 per cent surtax on incomes of individuals and corporations.

The budget figures are based for the first time on a new unified concept which includes $47 billion in spending from vast trust funds. These are for such things as Social Security, highways and Medicare.

Johnson said the economic outlook for this year, if the country is vigilant, is one for steady growth.

"True," he said, "there are some clouds on the horizon. Prices are rising. Interest rates have passed the peak of 1966; and if there is continued inaction on the tax bill, they will climb higher."

Castroite group claims it killed two U.S. officers

GUATEMALA (AP) — Police made large numbers of arrests Wednesday in the hunt for the assassins of two U.S. military officers who were machinegunned from a speeding car.

A clandestine communique signed by Rebel Armed Forces — FAR — a Castroite group, claimed it killed the two Americans Tuesday because they were associated with Guatemalan army groups who "dedicated themselves to sow terror and death."

U.S. Army Col. John D. Webber Jr., 47, Houston, Tex., head of the U.S. military advisory group in Guatemala since 1966, and Lt. Cmdr. Ernest A. Munro, 40, Rockland, Maine, head of the U.S. naval section, were gunned down near Guatemalan air force headquarters.

Marine Sgt. Harry L. Green, 41, Omaha, Neb., the group's communications adviser, was wounded and was reported in fair condition. Army Sgt. Maj. John R. Forster, 42, a native of Seattle, Wash., was struck in the arm by shattered glass but was released from a hospital after treatment.

The police roundup was carried out under a decree of modified martial law declared shortly after the Americans were killed. They were the first U.S. victims of the wave of rightist and leftist terror that has claimed more than 1,000 lives in the last year and a half.

The government tightened security around the U.S. Embassy and other American installations. President Julio Mendez Montenegro sent regrets over the slayings to Washington.

The Rebel Armed Forces (typewritten communique asserted the U.S. military mission has "ordered the Guatemalan army to create groups of assassins" against guerrillas.

These groups, the communique charged, had engaged in "genocidal work" that had resulted in the death of nearly 4,000 Guatemalans. Therefore, it added, FAR had "decided to mete out justice."

Tuesday was a bloody day in this Central American nation and in all five persons were killed.

Former Guatemalan congressman Alejandro Silva Falla, 40, marked for death by rightist extremists, died in a burst of machine-gun fire. His bodyguard exchanged fire with the gunmen and was killed.

Edinboro State not college

Shafer shields drug victims

HARRISBURG (AP) — Gov. Raymond P. Shafer ordered a full-scale investigation Wednesday into the 18-month-old case of six Pennsylvania college students blinded by the sun while in a trance induced by LSD.

Shafer declined to name the students or the school they attended, however, and said officials connected with his administration had been ordered to remain silent also.

The only positive statement the governor made at a news conference was that the school was not Edinboro State College, near Erie, as had been pinpointed in one published report.

Shafer was critical of the way the tragedy had been handled since it first came to the attention of certain state officials in June 1966.

"The fact that someone was blinded by the use of LSD should have been brought to the attention of the American public," he said. "I agree, it should have been done 18 months ago."

The governor said he would "make fully public all of the details of the case which are in the public interest."

Shafer, who returned Tuesday night from a two-week Virgin Islands vacation, said:

"Preliminary facts given to me on my return... convince me that a terrible tragedy has occurred in the lives of six young Pennsylvanians because of the use of LSD."

"It is a tragedy that shocks each one of us and demands that we do everything within our power to end the illegal use of drugs."

"The first consideration in this present matter must be the well-being and rehabilitation of the six students. They already suffer physical scars which they are trying to learn to live with. We must do everything possible to help them."

Report

Shafer said he has ordered Public Welfare Secretary Thomas W. Georges Jr. to turn the files of each of the six students over to Atty. Gen. William C. Sennett, who is to submit a preliminary report to him Thursday.

In addition, he said, Sennett and Georges have been instructed not to divulge the identities of the students or the school involved until the entire investigation is completed.

Gov. Shafer, after returning from a vacation in the Virgin Islands Wednesday, told a news conference that his administration will make public the names of six college students blinded by the sun after taking LSD. (UPI telephoto)

New taxes trouble Congress

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson ran into renewed Congressional opposition Wednesday night to his tax-spending programs, but won applause for his plan to add to the nation's ready gold reserves.

Johnson's call in his State of the Union message for a training program for the hard-core unemployed brought favorable comment from Chairman Carl D. Perkins, D-Ky., of the House Education and Labor Committee, who promised early consideration.

"This is a most worthy program and one long overdue," said Perkins.

But Sen. Russell B. Long, D-La., said he remains opposed to the President's request for a 10 per cent surcharge on income taxes.

"We are not going to act on it in my committee unless the House passes it," said Long chairman of the Senate Finance Committee.

Rep. Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark., chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee, who blocked the proposal last year and who says he will continue to insist on federal spending cuts as a price for supporting any tax increase, withheld comment until he has seen Johnson's new budget figures. These are due around the end of the month.

Shafer shields drug victims

HARRISBURG (AP) — Gov. Raymond P. Shafer ordered a full-scale investigation Wednesday into the 18-month-old case of six Pennsylvania college students blinded by the sun while in a trance induced by LSD.

Shafer declined to name the students or the school they attended, however, and said officials connected with his administration had been ordered to remain silent also.

The only positive statement the governor made at a news conference was that the school was not Edinboro State College, near Erie, as had been pinpointed in one published report.

Shafer was critical of the way the tragedy had been handled since it first came to the attention of certain state officials in June 1966.

"The fact that someone was blinded by the use of LSD should have been brought to the

The governor said he would "make fully public all of the details of the case which are in the public interest."

Shafer, who returned Tuesday night from a two-week Virgin Islands vacation, said:

"Preliminary facts given to me on my return... convince me that a terrible tragedy has occurred in the lives of six young Pennsylvanians because of the use of LSD."

"The first consideration in this present matter must be the well-being and rehabilitation of the six students. They already suffer physical scars which they are trying to learn to live with. We must do everything possible to help them."

Report

Shafer said he has ordered Public Welfare Secretary Thomas W. Georges Jr. to turn the files of each of the six students over to Atty. Gen. William C. Sennett, who is to submit a preliminary report to him Thursday.

In addition, he said, Sennett and Georges have been instructed not to divulge the identities of the students or the school involved until the entire investigation is completed.

Gov. Shafer, after returning from a vacation in the Virgin Islands Wednesday, told a news conference that his administration will make public the names of six college students blinded by the sun after taking LSD. (UPI telephoto)

Cold wave freezes up Southland

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The weather experts called it a freak arctic blast and said it probably wouldn't happen again in the next 15 or 20 years.

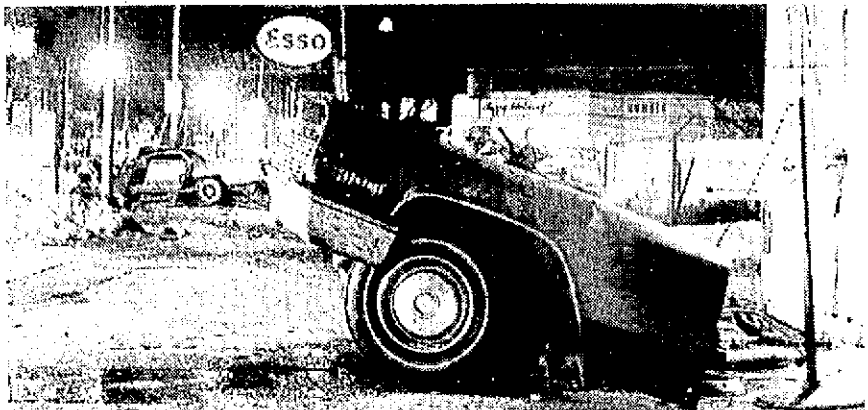

(See weather pattern, page 12).

But that was small consolation to shivering Southerners who watched the temperatures plunge to subfreezing all the way to the Gulf of Mexico.

Freak or not, it was just plain cold. In fact, the 12 degrees recorded at Asheville, N.C., Wednesday was one degree lower than Bismarck, N.D.

A warming trend is expected to give slight hope for relief from the frigid mass which brought lows of 24 to Tallahassee, Fla. and 32 to Apalachicola, Fla., on the Gulf.

It is unusual for the temperature to fall below freezing along the Gulf Coast,

Changes in SS law

Medicare plan improved

(Editor's note: Fourth in a series of six articles on the expanded Social Security law.)

By MARTIN E. SEGAL

Among the most important additions to Medicare provisions in the new Social Security law is one that adds to the number of days of hospitalization insurance. The addition is a lifetime reserve of 60 days of hospital care.

Under the original Medicare law, Part A hospital insurance covered up to 90 days of hospitalization per "spell of illness." The patient paid the first $40 of hospital costs, plus $10 per day for the 61st to 90th day of hospitalization. If hospitalization was necessary after the 90th day during the same spell of illness, the patient had to pay the entire bill for anything more than 90 days — if he didn't have some other insurance.

(A spell of illness begins the first day a patient receives covered hospital services; it ends when the patient has not been in a hospital or nursing home for at least 60 consecutive days. Then a new 90-day hospital insurance period begins.)

Once in a lifetime The new law provides that every person 65 years old and over will have 60 additional days of hospital insurance — of which he will pay the first $20 per day of costs. Unlike the 90-day per spell of illness coverage, the extra 60-day reserve is not renewable. Once you use it up, it's gone.

For example, say a patient is in the hospital for a total of 10 weeks. He is then discharged, and is not hospitalized again for six months. Since more than 60 days will have gone by since his last stay in a hospital, he is again entitled to 90 days of hospitalization.

Now take another example. This time the total hospital stay is 100 days. The first 90 days are covered by the regular 90-day per spell of illness Medicare insurance. The additional 10 days are taken from the lifetime reserve. Sixty days after the end of this illness, the regular 90-day hospitalization insurance is back in force. But the lifetime reserve has been reduced by 10 days to 50.

Until now, Medicare Part B, the doctors' bill insurance, could be paid in one of two ways. First and best way was for the doctor to accept assignment of the Medicare reimbursement as 80 per cent of his full fee. This method eliminates all paperwork and waiting for the elderly patient. All he has to do is pay the doctor his 20 per cent of the fee.

More paperwork junked

The second method, when the doctor refuses to accept assignment of the Medicare reimbursement, is for the patient to get a receipted bill from the doctor, and file for reimbursement. This sometimes takes a long time — first the wait for the receipted bill, then the wait for the check.

The new law says that a receipted bill is no longer necessary. If the doctor gives you an itemized bill — as he is supposed to anyway — you can claim reimbursement on that bill. It doesn't matter whether you have paid the bill or not.

Another piece of unnecessary paperwork eliminated by the new Social Security law is the doctor's certification that a patient needs to be hospitalized. Under the original law, a doctor had to sign a statement saying that a patient had to be in the hospital before Medicare would reimburse a hospital for his stay.

This was rather silly, since hospital rules require that only physicians can admit patients — regardless of whether they are 7 or 70.

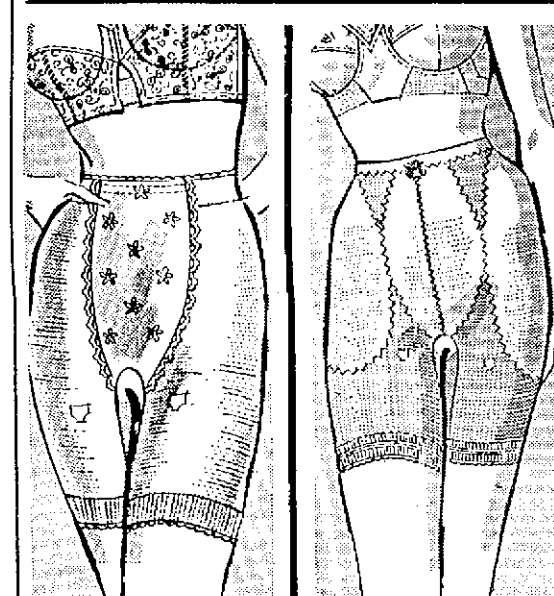

Another simplification in Medicare operations written into the new law puts all services provided patients out-of-the-hospital under Part B of Medicare — the doctor's bill insurance. This includes out-

Two young girls beaten, slashed

PRINSAUKEN, N.J. (AP) — Police said two girls abducted in Camden, N.J., were driven here and forced to disrobe before they were beaten and slashed.

The girls, nude and bleeding, then stumbled and crawled almost a block in sub-freezing temperatures for help Tuesday night.

Police said the girls, Bonnie Comisso, 18, and Emma Weaver, 15, were in fair condition at Cooper Hospital, Camden, suffering from numerous cuts.

Policemen said the girls were forced into an auto by an unknown youth, about 18, who said he had a gun. He drove them to an open area here, then ordered them to disrobe.

Police said they were told the youth then started slashing at the girls. Detectives said it looked as if they were attacked with a knife or razor.

The younger girl said the youth tried to choke her, then pushed them both out of the car and drove away, driving over the older girl as he did.

The girls made their way to a lighted house about a block away. The occupant, Harry B. Stow, called the police.

Police later went to a field near Stow's house and found the girls' blood-stained clothing, boots, dungarees, coats, blouses and undergarments scattered about. Patrolmen said some clothes were tied in knots.

Real need, no extinguisher

ITHACA, N.Y. (AP) — Brian Correll of Athens, Pa., generally has a fire extinguisher in his automobile. Several days ago, he used it to save a neighbor's car from serious fire damage and sent it to be refilled.

Yesterday, Correll's station wagon caught fire from an overheated wheel bearing near here as he drove homeward from Syracuse. The vehicle was destroyed. Correll said the extinguisher could have checked the fire easily.

Correll, his wife and three daughters were not hurt.

$6,000 improvementsChurch makes renovations

SOUTH STERLING. — Improvements at an estimated cost of $6,000 are being planned at the South Sterling Methodist Church, according to a report issued by the official board.

Work is under way at present, with some parts of the scheduled changes completed. The outside doors have been rebuilt to open outwards, and a new door has been installed into the Sunday School rooms. Painting of the church and the vestibule has been completed, the ceiling insulated, balcony cabinets removed, and the balcony is in the process of being paneled.

Witness convention in Bangor

BANGOR. — The Watchtower Bible and Tract Society officially announced its plans to sponsor a three-day circuit assembly for Jehovah's Witnesses in Bangor March 8 through 10.

Upwards of 1,400 delegates will attend the convention including hundreds of ministers of Jehovah's Witnesses from the Lehigh Valley.

Stephen F. Borlik, spokesman for the East Stroudsburg congregation, stated that "congregation tied together as a circuit ensemble twice a year for the purpose of improving their teaching ability for use in their ministerial work. This is accomplished by means of appropriate talks and demonstrations. But above all," Borlik added, "the gathering will serve to strengthen each one to remain in the faith."

The featured speaker appearing daily on the program will be Christian H. Weining from the Watchtower world headquarters in Brooklyn, New York.

He has been in the ministry for 23 years and is at present the district supervisor for Jehovah's Witnesses in adjoining parts of Pennsylvania, New York and New Jersey which embrace 180 congregations with a total of 15,000 witnesses. Mr. Weining's principle Bible discourse will be on the subject "Why Does God Permit Wickedness?" scheduled for Sunday afternoon.

Lawrence A. Held, Sr. will also be a featured speaker throughout the sessions. Mr. Held directs the ministerial work in the 16 congregations that will attend the forthcoming assembly.

$5,000 loss in Bangor burglaries

BANGOR. — Two Bangor area burglaries resulted in thefts and damage in excess of $5,000, State Police at Easton said Tuesday night.

The burglaries were reported to police Monday morning. Most extensive loss was at Central Rethreading Center, Blue Valley Dr., Bangor R.D. 2.

Stolen from the rereading firm was a jeep with a snow plow, ski equipment, three guns, tools, cigarettes and change from the vending machine.

The building was also heavily damaged, police said.

Across the street at Evelyn Peters Auto Services, entrance was made by forcing a door, as was entrance into the rereading firm building. Money from a vending machine was taken and a used car parked on the lot was heavily damaged.

Schools back to normal after layoff

STROUDSBURG. — Area schools reported fair to good attendance records, despite unfavorable road conditions on scattered secondary roads, after a two-day recess forced by inclement weather conditions.

The absentee rate was not really excessive, said Alvin Coleman, assistant principal, Stroudsburg Junior - Senior High School, and added that it was much the same as for December, "perhaps 10 per cent."

"Numerous pupils reported late for the first period, but otherwise absenteeism presented no major problem," he added.

The remaining three school districts reported much the same. East Stroudsburg Area Schools still had good attendance considering all conditions, about 10 per cent absentees. Pocono Mountain District and Pleasant Valley reported attendance was very good.

Pen Argyl plays host to group

PEN ARGYL. — The Youth Fellowship groups of the Midtown Parish Methodist Church of Philadelphia, chaperoned by Mrs. Frank Kessil, were entertained at the home of Mrs. Ralph Massey, chairman of the Christian Social Concerns Commission of the Pen Argyl Methodist Church.

Mrs. Massey was assisted by Mrs. Marian Harris, Mr. and Mrs. Paul May, Rev. and Mrs. Charles Montgomery, and Raymond Honey.

After luncheon, the 35 members of the group participated in sleigh-riding in Pen Argyl and then returned for ice skating at the Massey home.

This was followed by a covered-dish supper provided by Mrs. Walter Herd, Mrs. Paul DeNardo, Mrs. Walter Dietz, Mrs. Elva Smith, Mrs. Richard Williams, Mrs. Duane Lobb, Mrs. Douglas Parleight, Mrs. Allen Jackson, Mrs. Walter Sanderecock, Mrs. Margaret Depp, Mrs. Helen Lukanski, Mrs. Mamie Gralico, Mrs. John Tolt, and Mrs. Norman Bonney.

Stroudsburg area couple files suit

STROUDSBURG. — A Stroudsburg HD 5 couple has filed suit in Monroe County Court against S. Jerome and Phyllis Rubin, Stroud Twp. and Prospect Cemetery, Inc., for alleged damage to a cherry tree on the plaintiff's property.

According to the suit filed by John J. Pentz Jr., Paul and Hazel Edinger, Stroudsburg HD 5, are seeking $700 from the defendants, claiming that a car operated by Rubin and owned by the cemetery was parked on a hill near the plaintiff's home when it rolled down and destroyed the tree.

The plaintiff estimated damages at $425 to replace the tree and $275 to clear the remaining stump from the destroyed cherry tree.

Bangor school sets 188-day year

BANGOR. — Jesse C. Encke, was named as a teacher in the Bangor Area School District elementary division during the meeting of the Bangor Area School Board on Monday evening. He will start his duties on Jan. 29.

The board tabled action on the resignation of Mrs. Eugene Mohr as a teacher in the Washington Building and granted maternity leave to Mrs. Joan Kantor, a Lincoln School teacher during the second semester of the present school term.

The school calendar of 188 teacher days and 188 pupil days, a co-operative school calendar with other schools of the county who are members of the Vo-Tech program was approved by the board.

Approval of the teacher inservice days on Feb. 26 and 27 was made with the board absorbing the costs.

Four recommended text books for the junior high school were given approval. Permission was granted to Charles Sandwick to take 200 pupils to the Lehigh Valley Science Fair in Allentown on April 3 and Armon M. Williams, junior high counselor was granted permission to take 200 pupils to the Lehigh Valley Science Fair in Allentown on April 3 and Armon M. Williams, junior high counselor was granted permission to take students of the 9th grade to Harrisburg and Gettysburg on May 15.

Bills totalling $155,926 were approved for payment and it was reported by Clarence Overfield, treasurer that the balance in all accounts of the district amounted to $191,413.51. Former County Solicitor John Mambrook informed the board that he has instructed all tax assessors in the area to carefully check all occupational classifications of residents in the school district.

District Solicitor Edmund Turzke reported that the school authority had accepted the contracts recommended by the board for the new junior high school building as well as setting Jan. 23 at 7 p. m. as the time to receive bids on $3,460,000 in bonds covering a 30 year period with seven year call clause from L. P. Rothschild, Inc.

Permission was granted to the Bee Hive to use the junior high school cafeteria as its meeting place for the balance of the present recreational season.

Salaries revised
The board revised the salary or wage scale of cafeteria workers in the district. The raise calling for a starting wage of $1.38 per hour to $1.50 per hour represents according to board members a seven per cent raise. Part time workers will receive rates of $1.40 to $1.45 depending on time of service.

The raise was made retro-active to the beginning of the school term and over a year's period will cost the district about $2,000 it was estimated. Mrs. Marta La Bar and Mrs. Mary Moore were approved as cafeteria workers.

Approval of the purchase of a new walk-in freezer for the Washington school was given from the low bidder Lawton Hoffman of Marshalls Creek. Their bid was $4,167. The only other bidder was Bally Freezers at $4,917.

The board approved the part payment of $108,000 on the account owned to Wolfe and Hahn, architects and reports were presented to the board by Dr. Trevor Williams, senior high principal and by Domenic DeFrance, elementary supervisor.

Dr. S. William Ricker reviewed his attendance at the Career Opportunity Conference sponsored by the Eastern Area Chamber of Commerce on Dec. 28 attended by more than 300 college students.

$6,000 improvementsChurch makes renovations

SOUTH STERLING — Improvements at an estimated cost of $6,000 are being planned at the South Sterling Methodist Church, according to a report issued by the official board.

Work is under way at present, with some parts of the scheduled changes completed. The outside doors have been rebuilt to open outwards, and a new door has been installed into the Sunday School rooms. Painting of the church and the vestibule has been completed, the ceiling insulated, balcony cabinets removed, and the balcony is in the process of being paneled.

New altar furniture has been planned, and changes in the front of the church have been made to allow more room for processions of the choir. The floor has been completely repaired and covered with hardwood, in preparation for new carpeting expected to be installed later this month.

Work has begun on the windows of the church, all except one of which must be rebuilt, all with storm windows to be installed, and some will have fitted ventilators at a cost in excess of $2,000.

New cupboards, a new bathroom for the Sunday School, and new curtains for the balcony will be included in the overall improvements. A new pulpit, lectern, communion table, two pulpit chairs, and a new communion rail will be part of the renovation.

The board has accepted with regret the resignation of Elvin Rake, of South Sterling, as janitor. Mr. Rake, who has served for many years, will be succeeded by Earl Lutz, also of South Sterling.

The South Sterling Church is the oldest of the three churches on the Charge. It was begun by a subscription paper in 1853, and the building was constructed for a total cost of $1500 on land donated by Richard Gilpin, great grandfather of Mrs. Estella Christman, a member of the present official board.

Forty years after its beginning, the church was remodeled at a cost of $2,298.92.

LSD a cause — not yet a cure

It is possible that some day LSD or something similar will be a beneficial drug used by man to solve some of his mounting problems. It is not likely, however, that Timothy Leary or others in the cult of current experimenters will get into history books as part of such a success story.

There are hints that use of LSD can lead to deterioration of the brain. More dramatic in their ugliness, however, are the things that users of the drug have occasionally done to themselves.

An LSD freak may argue that his peers and their parents have been tempting fate for themselves and others in the over-use of alcohol for longer than the young life of LSD. True enough. No one condones the drunk who kills himself or others while trying to drive and no one condones the alcoholic rage that may lead to tragedy or the stupor that may leave a drunk to die of exposure.

Alcohol can lead to evil but it differs in one respect: its effect is known even if the action is uncertain.

An attraction of LSD appears to be that it is mysterious. The trip may be pleasant; it may be tragic.

A human may take an alcoholic drink or two and be unaffected. In a sense the LSD tripper asks for the stupor or over-indulgence. Of course he comes out safe and alive most of the time. So does a chicken crossing the road. But the odds are different and obviously they are unpredictable.

The shock of the case of six students who blinded themselves by sunbathing under the influence of LSD is the lesson from which we learn. Other lessons were learned decades ago when others were blinded by bad liquor.

We have a hope for LSD — that it will prove medicinally more valuable than liquor and get fewer people in trouble. And further that we will not have to learn so much from sad experience.

March of Dimes asks our continued support

This is the month that the March of Dimes springs to life in the charitable bosoms of our community. It could use a shot in the arm, not unlike the shots in the arm that has rescued thousands of us from polio.

Most of us can remember not so many summers ago when the desired mild weather inevitably brought undesired tragedy to victims picked at random by the infantile paralysis bug. Then the March of Dimes led to the discovery of a vaccine by Dr. Jonas Salk. How many and which of us have been saved from being crippled, or worse, we'll never know.

The vaccine provided the means to defeat polio and the March of Dimes looked for new tragedies to erase before they could happen while still offering a hand to the many who had been stricken by polio.

As the battle against polio draws to a happy close the organization established with that goal has turned to a new area. It sponsors care and research in one of the "hush hush" fields — birth defects.

To carry the local fight the drive is enlisting our neighbors. Many have already received a mail solicitation that should be acknowledged. Others will participate in the Mothers' March and younger volunteers have a candy sale in progress.

Because nothing succeeds like success, the March of Dimes has a head start. But it needs our push.

With Gene Brown

From the Battleground:

On Sunday morning, the weary husband, bleary-eyed but determined, made his way downstairs to the kitchen. A half-hour later he returned, carrying a breakfast tray which he carefully set down on the bed before his delighted but astonished wife.

"What a wonderful surprise!" she exclaimed. "The tray is beautiful, darling, and the food looks delicious."

"Then you see everything I've done?" he asked.

"Of course, dear, every detail. Why?"

"Because," the husband said briskly, "this is exactly how I want my breakfast from now on."

"You do believe in free speech don't you?"

"Of course."

"Good. I wanted to ask before using your telephone."

A real estate agent was showing a very beautiful blonde through a luxurious penthouse atop a resort hotel. "Now in this wing," said the agent, "we have the master bedroom, bath and den." The blonde interrupted suspiciously. "And den what?"

Rich Aunt: "I'm sorry you don't like your gift, but I asked you if you liked a large check or a small one."

Disappointed Nephew: "Yes, but I didn't know you were talking about neckties."

Irate golfer to his caddie: "You must be the world's worst caddie."

Caddie: "Hardly. That would be too much of a coincidence."

Training jobless

WASHINGTON — President Johnson is right that, if the nation's hard-core unemployed cannot get jobs in private industry, the federal government "must be the employer of last resort."

That's not radical; it's realistic.

It is not radical because the President does not propose to make government the first job provider but the last.

It is not radical because it clearly centers prime responsibility where it belongs — on private enterprise to do more, far more, to train and motivate the unemployed and create the necessary jobs.

Fortunately, influential businessmen — those best able to put their words to work — are saying exactly the same thing.

They are saying, as Gerald L. Phillippe, chairman of the board of General Electric, recently told the National Association of Manufacturers, that private industry must discharge its responsibility to meet the urban crisis and that the public expects it to do so.

Can't afford it

Phillippe rightly warns that business cannot afford to sit by and leave wide poverty in the midst of national affluence.

"The price of not acting now in this crisis," he added, "of not contributing in concert all of the business skills we can muster, will be to abdicate our position as leaders. We cannot expect to have a say in the decisions that our nation is making unless we take the responsibilities that go with it."

And Arjay Miller, president of Ford Motor Company, is frankly telling his business colleagues that "of all the social problems demanding attention today, the most basic is the elimination of poverty in this country. One-sixth of our fellow citizens are not sharing adequately — or, in some cases, at all — in our progress to date."

Another business leader put it bluntly in eight words: "If not us, who? If not now, when?"

What is significant is that President Johnson

and business leadership are heading in the same direction. There is growing evidence that the private sector is breaking out of a long-standing mold that insists that social problems, like unemployment, are the exclusive province of government. Business is beginning to shed its passive attitude toward its social responsibilities.

The Administration urgently wants the private sector to take the lead in job-training and job-creating. And there are numerous ways the government can help before we have to think about make-work programs.

Training subsidy

It has already made a beginning. It has signed contracts with 10 large companies to help finance special training for hard-core unemployed in the hope the jobs will open up.

Now the Administration is going a step further. It is offering additional funds (which cover only part of the cost) to companies which recruit, train, and guarantee jobs to the trainees.

Other things can be done. One of the great difficulties which private industry has in providing jobs for the hard-core unemployed is that these workers do not quickly acquire the skills to earn the minimum wages required by law. On this point Senator Charles Percy of Illinois, a successful businessman himself, proposes that the federal government supplement the below-minimum wages when companies take on trainees before they are equipped for higher-pay jobs.

It is a new and encouraging sign of the times to have a corporate executive like Ford's Arjay Miller saying that eliminating poverty is the most urgent business and social problem in the U.S. today.

The reason eliminating poverty is so basic is that the nation's other most acute social ills spring from it — racial tension, intolerable ghetto conditions, and violence.

This is why there is no excuse for inaction or ineffective action by either business or government.

Bob Considine

Atomic defenders

LAS VEGAS — This famed Gambling Hell could become the atoms-for-peace capital of the world.

The Geonuclear Corporation was recently formed from Continental Oil Co., Edgerton, Germeshausen and Grier, the company that has weapons, and Reynolds Electrical & Reynolds Engineering Co., operators of the Nevada test site since 1950.

For a price, which the new company hopes to get down to $300,000, minus the dipping of the needed wells Geonuclear would roam this country and the world setting off underground atomic bombs which would squeeze oil out of shale, release untold natural gas fields, root out more copper from sites no longer held economical to mine, create underground water reservoirs whose water will not evaporate in hot climates, and even dig cesspools that could take care of a city's waste for decades.

Had a talk the other day with two of the leading figures of the new company, Hal Aronson and Henry Coffey, engineers of an age they are sure is about to dawn. It's a heady experience.

Never fear

"All technical difficulties have been solved," Aronson, an athletic young man, told us. "But that's just a beginning. We used to be engineers. Now we're public relations men. Our job is to assure the general public that what we are capable of doing will not hurt them. They grew up filled with stories about Hiroshima and Nagasaki and the radioactive ash that fell on the Japanese tuna fishermen."

"Naturally, they tend to become jumpy when they hear about radio-activity in any connection. About 6,000 megawatts of nuclear reactor electrical power is now being produced by the utility companies in this country, to add to the thermal and hydro sources of power. Harmless, of course, but nice ladies still occasionally call up their power companies to ask if their electric ranges will be contaminated."

Dr. Coffey, a jovial genius type, said, "There's more radiation thrown off by burning coal than by fissioning materials. Matter of fact, it was had found uranium and plutonium first, as a source of peaceful power, we'd probably now have some sort of an international test ban on the burning of coal."

"The radiation produced above surface from underground detonation of a 100 kiloton nuclear device — five times the yield of the Hiroshima bomb — is about the same as a person who lives in Denver receives every day. He has a mile less of atmospheric cushion between himself and radiation coming at all of us from the sun."

"The last time you had an X-Ray of your chest you took 3-10ths of a Roentgen, that is, about three times what your body has been subjected to from all the nuclear tests of all the nuclear powers since we touched off the first one at Alamogordo in 1945," Dr. Coffey said, merrily.

"Our safety guards are enormous," Aronson said, with the sigh of a man who has gone through them. He listed the steps which Geonuclear must take to operate: Feasibility studies, project design, government agency coordination (ABC owns the bang), field operations and post-shot safety.

"We're thinking of a future when we'll be having from 500 to 1,000 shots a year. But if we can't get this on the road in five years, well, we're in trouble."

Letters to the Editor

School closing was too cautious

Editor, The Record:

Pardon me for being what the two lower generations would call an "old timer" but what are we teaching our kids when we call off school for two consecutive days as was done this week?

I was not surprised when it was called off on Monday. The roads were very slippery and probably most people (including the school bus drivers) were not prepared for such unusual conditions. I was shocked, however, to learn early Tuesday that school had been called off again.

It was a beautiful cold and sunny day. Yes, the roads were still covered with ice or snow but is that an unusual condition in the winter? The highway men had almost two days to cover the worst spots with cinders and to the best of my knowledge this was done. My husband had no trouble getting to work (he had none Monday either) and from what I could see there were as many cars and trucks on the roads as there would have been in June.

Are our school buses so fragile that they can't be trusted except under ideal conditions? Are our school bus drivers so bad that they can't be trusted unless the roads are clear?

At my husband's work a few people came late on Monday morning but everyone got there. These were people coming from the country. Even more of them had been delayed last Friday when it was 20 below and some cars wouldn't start. The school buses got going that morning as I remember it.

I don't think it is good for the kids to let flimsy excuses call off school. They are going to think that "looking for excuses" is the way to go through life.

If people can get to work to earn a living, their kids should be able to get to school to learn how to make a living.

I'm sure the school administrators just thought they were being cautious but this time they were too cautious and it is a bad example.

Barry saved from total sacrifice

Editor, The Record:

With all due respect and admiration for Barry Schaffer, I feel I must speak out against a statement made by Arlington Martin, Monroe County commissioner at services honoring Barry at the West End American Legion. (Pocono Record Jan. 8).

It is certainly true as Post Adjutant Neil Ruddy said that Barry gave almost everything he had and did little (if any) complaining.

However, when Mr. Martin stated that he (Barry) "sacrificed more than any other member of our county" his statement, in my opinion, was a gross injustice to the memory of the boys of our county who did sacrifice everything when they laid down their lives.

With a heart full of love for Barry Schaffer and thankfulness to God for sparing his life, may I remind Mr. Martin of the total sacrifices of James Little, James Welsh, Paul Tighe and Willis Schubert. And to Barry may I say that, being the kind of person you are, I know that you understand this letter is not meant in any way to take away one fraction of the admiration and praise and credit that you so greatly deserve. Your courage and enthusiasm for living will never be surpassed.

Peyton in place

WASHINGTON — A column such as this should, as often possible, perform a public service. Generally, I give you the continuing drama of President Johnson and the Congress of the U.S., even though I know that at least twice a week some of you are distracted by the continuing drama of Peyton Place, on television.

For this reason, and in order to save you as much time as possible (time better spent reading this column and thinking about world events), today I give you a recap of recent episodes in Peyton Place and my guess as to what will happen next in this thrilling tale of sin in New England.

Fortunately — since I don't watch the show myself — the network provides a thumbnail sketch of each installment for newspaper TV guides. As we pick it up, Norman and Rita are pulling weeds on the Village Green. Adrienne begs Constance to attend a wedding and Steven and Betty split up and sign a property settlement. But then, Mr. Peyton, who rules the town, annoys Adrienne. Rita abandons weed-pulling just in time to upset Eddie's murder plans! Eddie is arrested in the Peyton mansion and Rita collapses. On the eve of the big wedding, Adrienne, who finally got people to attend, has a big fight with Betty.

Rita is still collapsed, while Betty, now separated from Steven, talks with Harrington Old Man Peyton continues to plot against everyone. Eddie confesses; Rita (recovered) goes back to weed-pulling with Norman and Steven asks Mr. Peyton why he's so mean.

Norman bails out Eddie by borrowing from Leslie. Eddie apologizes for trying to kill people; Rita says, "Oh, that's all right," and Mr. Peyton asks Betty to please shut up. And that's where we are now, give or take a chapter. However, my computer says this is what will happen:

Rita and Norman will realize that weed-killing is more effective than weed-pulling, but Rita will die after drinking some. Eddie will be blamed for poisoning Rita. Norman, who tricked Rita into drinking the weed killer, will go back to Leslie for money to bail out Eddie and Leslie will shoot him dead.

Eddie will go to the electric chair, Leslie will be sentenced to 20 years and Mr. Peyton, who has figured everything out, will stuff Norman down a well and run off to Brazil with Adrienne. Rodney Harrington will be drafted and Constance and Steven, holding hands, will jump off a cliff. And, thus the drama of Peyton Place will no longer continue.

Parathyroid gland

The parathyroid gland is a tiny bud that lies deep inside of the thyroid gland in the neck. Its size is in no way related to the many duties it performs in all parts of the body.

These four tiny glands produce a hormone that is particularly important in the use and deposit of calcium in the bones of the body. The nerves and muscles can also be deficient in this hormone.

A condition called tetany is the result of disturbance in the function of the parathyroid gland. This must not be confused by bacteria.

These ball-bearing size glands have resisted giving up their secrets until recently when a new test was devised by Dr. Eric Reiss at the Michael Reese Hospital in Chicago, Illinois. With it Dr. Reiss can now accurately determine the activity of the parathyroid glands in health and in disease.

The test can pinpoint an over or under production of hormone and answer some of the riddles that a patient's symptoms present. The test is based on one originally devised by Dr. S. A. Berkson and Dr. P. S. Yallow of the Veterans Administration Hospital in the Bronx, New York.

Few people realize that gigantic strides are made in civilian medicine by the armed forces and the personnel in the V. A. Hospitals all over America. In this case, the civilians are the beneficiaries of an important advance in medicine.

The dream of all mankind has been the total eradication of tuberculosis. Scientists have for years been focusing on a vaccine that would wipe out a disease which still is one of the scourges of civilization.

When groups of brilliant scientists are concentrated in laboratories and are given free reign to work unhampered by concern over personal finances, remarkable results are produced. This is the story of the vaccine against polio, measles, mumps and the recent one against German measles.

A BCG vaccine has been used for many years on people who are exposed to tuberculosis. Doctors, nurses, students and hospital personnel have been given this vaccine with moderate success. The name comes from Bacillus Calmette-Guerin, the doctors who first described and used it.

At the University of Illinois there is an Institute of Tuberculosis Research. Here, Dr. Sol Rosenthal has been using the BCG vaccine in a rather spectacular way. Children in classrooms have been immunized by spraying the room with the vaccine, permitting the children to inhale the vaccine directly into their lungs.

With this method Dr. Rosenthal has been able to painlessly vaccinate many people who inhale the droplets deep into the corners of the lung. X-ray studies of the lung have shown no abnormalities during the use of this technique. If completely successful the method may be tried with other vaccines.

Stories Behind Words

VERNACULAR

The original meaning of "vernacular" — the dialect of a region — was "of or pertaining to a slave."

The Romans called a slave born in his master's house "verna." The Romans conquered many lands and enslaved the native people, and "verna" acquired a new meaning — an enslaved native of a region. By extension of the word was used to denote a native.

From "verna" came the adjective "vernacular" — of or pertaining to a native. "Vernacular" was the basis for the English word "vernacular" — the dialect of a particular region.

LSD a cause — not yet a cure

It is possible that some day LSD or something similar will be a beneficial drug used by man to solve some of his mounting problems. It is not likely, however, that Timothy Leary or others in the cult of current experimenters will get into history books as part of such a success story.

There are hints that use of LSD can lead to deterioration of the brain. More dramatic in their ugliness, however, are the things that users of the drug have occasionally done to themselves.

An LSD freak may argue that his peers and their parents have been tempting fate for themselves and others in the over-use of alcohol for longer than the young life of LSD. True enough. No one condones the drunk who kills himself or others while trying to drive and no one condones the alcoholic rage that may lead to tragedy or the stupor that may leave a drunk to die of exposure.

Alcohol can lead to evil but it differs in one respect: its effect is known even if the action is uncertain.

An attraction of LSD appears to be that it is mysterious. The trip may be pleasant; it may be tragic.

A human may take an alcoholic drink or two and be unaffected. In a sense the LSD tripper asks for the stupor or over-indulgence. Of course he comes out safe and alive most of the time. So does a chicken crossing the road. But the odds are different and obviously they are undependable.

The shock of the case of six students who blinded themselves by gazing under the influence of LSD is the lesson from which we learn. Other lessons were learned decades ago when others were blinded by bad liquor.

We have a hope for LSD — that it will prove medicinally more valuable than liquor and get fewer people in trouble. And further that we will not have to learn so much from sad experience.

March of Dimes asks our continued support

This is the month that the March of Dimes springs to life in the charitable bosoms of our community. It could use a shot in the arm, not unlike the shots in the arm that has rescued thousands of us from polio.

Most of us can remember not so many summers ago when the desired mild weather inevitably brought undesired tragedy to victims picked at random by the infantile paralysis bug. Then the March of Dimes led to the discovery of a vaccine by Dr. Jonas Salk. How many and which of us have been saved from being crippled, or worse, we'll never know.

The vaccine provided the means to defeat polio and the March of Dimes looked for new tragedies to erase before they could happen while still offering a hand to the many who had been stricken by polio.

As the battle against polio draws to a happy close the organization established with that goal has turned to a new area. It sponsors care and research in one of the "hush hush" fields — birth defects.

To carry the local fight the drive is enlisting our neighbors. Many have already received a mail solicitation that should be acknowledged. Others will participate in the Mothers' March and younger volunteers have a candy sale in progress.

Because nothing succeeds like success, the March of Dimes has a head start. But it needs our push.

From the Battleground:

On Sunday morning, the weary husband, bleary-eyed but determined, made his way downstairs to the kitchen. A half-hour later he returned, carrying a breakfast tray which he carefully set down on the bed before his delighted but astonished wife.

"What a wonderful surprise!" she exclaimed. "The tray is beautiful, darling, and the food looks delicious."

"Then you see everything I've done?" he asked.

"Of course, dear, every detail. Why?"

"Because," the husband said briskly, "this is exactly how I want my breakfast from now on."

"You do believe in free speech don't you?"

"Of course."

"Good, I wanted to ask before using your telephone."

A real estate agent was showing a very beautiful blonde through a luxurious penthouse atop a resort hotel. "Now in this wing," said the agent, "we have the master bedroom, bath and den." The blonde interrupted suspiciously. "And den what?"

Rich Aunt: "I'm sorry you don't like your gift, but I asked you if you liked a large check or a small one."

Disappointed Nephew: "Yes, but I didn't know you were talking about neckties."

Irate golfer to his caddy: "You must be the world's worst caddy."

Caddy: "Hardly. That would be too much of a coincidence."

Training jobless

WASHINGTON — President Johnson is right that, if the nation's hard-core unemployed cannot get jobs in private industry, the federal government "must be the employer of last resort."

That's not radical; it's realistic. It is not radical because the President does not propose to make government the first job provider but the last.

It is not radical because it clearly centers prime responsibility where it belongs — on private enterprise to do more, far more, to train and motivate the unemployed and create the necessary jobs.

Fortunately, influential businessmen — those best able to put their words to work — are saying exactly the same thing.

They are saying, as Gerald L. Phillippe, chairman of the board of General Electric, recently told the National Association of Manufacturers, that private industry must discharge its responsibility to meet this urban crisis and that the public expects it to do so.

Can't afford it Phillippe rightly warns that business cannot afford to sit by and leave wide poverty in the midst of national affluence.

"The price of not acting now in this crisis," he added, "of not contributing in concert all of the business skills we can muster, will be to abdicate our position as leaders. We cannot expect to have a say in the decisions that our nation is making unless we take the responsibilities that go with it."

And Arjay Miller, president of Ford Motor Company, is frankly telling his business colleagues that "of all the social problems demanding attention today, the most basic is the elimination of poverty in this country. One-sixth of our fellow citizens are not sharing adequately — or, in some cases, at all — in our progress to date."

What is significant is that President Johnson

and business leadership are heading in the same direction. There is growing evidence that the private sector is breaking out of a long-standing mold that insists that social problems, like unemployment, are the exclusive province of government. Business is beginning to shed its passive attitude toward its social responsibilities.

The Administration urgently wants the private sector to take the lead in job-training and job-creating. And there are numerous ways the government can help before we have to think about make-work programs.

Training subsidy It has already made a beginning. It has signed contracts with 10 large companies to help finance special training for hard-core unemployed in the hope the jobs will open up.

Now the Administration is going a step further. It is offering additional funds (which cover only part of the cost) to companies which recruit, train, and guarantee jobs to the trainees.

Other things can be done. One of the great difficulties which private industry has in providing jobs for the hard-core unemployed is that these workers do not quickly acquire the skills to earn the minimum wages required by law. On this point Senator Charles Percy of Illinois, a successful businessman himself, proposes that the federal government supplement the below-minimum wages when companies take on trainees before they are equipped for higher-pay jobs.

It is a new and encouraging sign of the times to have a corporate executive like Ford's Arjay Miller saying that eliminating poverty is the most urgent business and social problem in the U.S. today.

The reason eliminating poverty is so basic is that the nation's other most acute social ills spring from it — racial tension, intolerable ghetto conditions, and violence.

This is why there is no excuse for inaction or ineffective action by either business or government.

Atomic defenders

LAS VEGAS — This famed Gambling Hell could become the atoms-for-peace capital of the world.

The Geonuclear Corporation was recently formed from Continental Oil Co., Edgerton, Germeshausen and Grier, the company that has weapons, and Reynolds Electrical & Reynolds Engineering Co., operators of the Nevada test site since 1950.

For a price, which the new company hopes to get down to $300,000, minus the digging of the needed wells Geonuclear would roam this country and the world setting off underground atomic bombs which would squeeze oil out of shale, release untold natural gas fields, root out more copper from sites no longer held economical to mine, create underground water reservoirs whose water will not evaporate in hot climates, and even dig cesspools that could take care of a city's waste for decades.

Had a talk the other day with two of the leading figures of the new company, Hal Aronson and Henry Coffey, engineers of an age they are sure is about to dawn. It's a heady experience.

Never fear

"All technical difficulties have been solved," Aronson, an athletic young man, told us. "But that's just a beginning. We used to be engineers. Now we're public relations men. Our job is to assure the general public that what we are capable of doing will not hurt them. They grew up filled with stories about Hiroshima and Nagasaki and the radioactive ash that fell on the Japanese tuna fishermen."

"Naturally, they tend to become jumpy when they hear about radio-activity in any connection. About 6,000 megawatts of nuclear reactor electrical power is now being produced by the utility companies in this country, to add to the thermal and hydro sources of power. Harmless, of course, but nice ladies still occasionally call up their power companies to ask if their electric ranges will be contaminated."

Dr. Coffey, a jovial genius type, said, "There's more radiation thrown off by burning coal than by fissioning materials. Matter of fact, it we had found uranium and plutonium first, as a source of peaceful power, we'd probably now have some sort of an international test ban on the burning of coal."

"The radiation produced above surface from underground detonation of a 100 kiloton nuclear device — five times the yield of the Hiroshima bomb — is about the same as a person who lives in Denver receives every day. He has a mile less of atmospheric cushion between himself and radiation coming at all of us from the sun."

"The last time you had an X-Ray of your chest you took 3-10ths of a Roentgen, that is, about three times what your body has been subjected to from all the nuclear tests of all the nuclear powers since we touched off the first one at Alamogordo in 1945," Dr. Coffey said, merrily.

"Our safety guards are enormous," Aronson said, with the sigh of a man who has gone through them. He listed the steps which Geonuclear must take to operate: Feasibility studies, project design, government agency coordination (AEC owns the bang), field operations and post-shot safety.

"We're thinking of a future when we'll be having from 500 to 1,000 shots a year. But if we can't get this on the road in five years, well, we're in trouble."

Lou Harris survey analysis

New Hampshire necessary but unimportant

By LOUIS HARRIS

If the early signs mean anything, a Richard Nixon loss and a George Romney win in New Hampshire will be a surprise.

The March 12 primary election, the nation's first in 1968, will be something of a sounding board for all major presidential candidates in both political parties—but it probably will be crucial for Gov. George Romney of Michigan and former Vice President Richard M. Nixon.

A decisive defeat for Romney could accelerate the already perceptible "moderate" demands that he bow out of the race. A defeat or even a poor showing by Nixon could prove crippling to his current position as the front-runner for the GOP nomination.

It is certain that a big Nixon win in New Hampshire will not necessarily prove that he will also be the winner of the presidential election in November. At the moment he is running behind President Johnson 45 to 55 per cent nationwide. The growing awareness among Republican politicians is that Nixon might win all of the primaries, win the nomination at Miami, but still lose the election in November, especially with former Gov. George Wallace of Alabama in the race.

Much ado

The question, then, is whether all of the exercise over the New Hampshire primary is worth the expense, exhaustive campaigning and fanfare which will be generated in the upcoming weeks.

On the Republican side, less than 100,000 persons will vote on March 12. They are by no means representative of the party as a whole. Here are some important differences between New Hampshire Republicans and the GOP rank and file across the country:

ONE — Only 14 per cent of New Hampshire GOP voters live in the suburbs, compared with a third nationally. The state does not have any really big city, although for the country as a whole 16 per cent of all Republicans — and 22 per cent of all voters — live in the cities.

The one group where Nixon has always run most strongly, both in 1960 and in the polls today, is among small-town and rural voters. By the same token, the base of moderate GOP strength, which Romney purports to represent, is rooted in the big cities and the suburbs, almost nonexistent in

New Hampshire.

TWO — Only 15 per cent of New Hampshire Republicans are under 35 years of age, while a majority are over 50. Nationally, the Republican Party consists of over one-fourth young people today, and less than a majority are over 50.

Nixon is notably weaker among younger voters and stronger among older people.

THREE — What could be a saver for Romney, however, is the fact that New Hampshire Republicans are much more moderate and middle-of-the-road in their political outlook than the GOP rank and file nationally. Only 27 per cent of Republicans in New Hampshire call themselves conservative, compared with 47 per cent nationally.

The main reasons for small-town moderation among New Hampshire Republicans are their traditional views in support of Social Security and racial progress at home and their internationalist point of view on foreign affairs. They are perhaps not as Hawkish on Vietnam as they have been made out to be, but are reportedly more committed to the war as a deterrent against Communist aggression than the public generally. This latter aspect of their internationalism, of course, could neutralize Romney's appeal as the moderate symbol in the primary.

But if Romney is to come on at all in New Hampshire, he will have to convince essentially small-town and rural voters that Nixon is a conservative and will return the GOP to the hands of the Goldwater wing of the party.

This may be difficult to do in view of Nixon's past ability to cover a broad spectrum of ideology from the extreme right to the middle of the road.

Many write-ins

One fact about New Hampshire primaries certainly marks this state as atypical from the rest: voters of both parties have no reluctance to write in the names of nonlisted candidates. In 1964, a majority of GOP voters wrote in the names of Henry Cabot Lodge or Richard Nixon.

There is talk of a write-in for Gov. Ronald Reagan of California, and that vote could hurt the Nixon cause. There is no doubt that the spectacular write-in for Lodge in 1964 took New Hampshire from Gov. Nelson Rockefeller of New York. But at the moment Reagan is slipping rather than gaining momentum. This time, if New Hampshire voters are at all like the rest of the country — and give Rockefeller more votes than any other Republican — a write-in for him could well sweep the day.

Their write-in proclivity is likely to help President Johnson on the Democratic side, for he is not running with his name on the ballot. The generally high level of support for the war among New Hampshire Catholics, who constitute a majority of the Democratic Party, could also enhance Johnson's chances against Sen. Eugene McCarthy of Minnesota.

Lou Harris survey analysis

New Hampshire necessary but unimportant

By LOUIS HARRIS

If the early signs mean anything, a Richard Nixon loss and a George Romney win in New Hampshire will be a surprise.

The March 12 primary election, the nation's first in 1968, will be something of a sounding board for all major presidential candidates in both political parties — but it probably will be crucial for Gov. George Romney of Michigan and former Vice President Richard M. Nixon.

A decisive defeat for Romney could accelerate the already perceptible "moderate" demands that he bow out of the race. A defeat or even a poor showing by Nixon could prove crippling to his current position as the front-runner for the GOP nomination.

It is certain that a big Nixon win in New Hampshire will not necessarily prove that he will also be the winner of the presidential election in November. At the moment he is running behind President Johnson 45 to 55 per cent nationwide. The growing awareness among Republican politicians is that Nixon might win all of the primaries, win the nomination at Miami, but still lose the election in November, especially with former Gov. George Wallace of Alabama in the race.

Much ado

The question, then, is whether all of the exercise over the New Hampshire primary is worth the expense, exhaustive campaigning and fanfare which will be generated in the upcoming weeks.

On the Republican side, less than 100,000 persons will vote on March 12. They are by no means representative of the party as a whole. Here are some important differences between New Hampshire Republicans and the GOP rank and file across the country:

ONE — Only 14 per cent of New Hampshire GOP voters live in the suburbs, compared with a third nationally. The state does not have any really big city, although for the country as a whole 16 per cent of all Republicans — and 22 per cent of all voters — live in the cities.

The one group where Nixon has always run most strongly, both in 1960 and in the polls today, is among small-town and rural voters. By the same token, the base of moderate GOP strength, which Romney purports to represent, is rooted in the big cities and the suburbs, almost nonexistent in

New Hampshire.

TWO — Only 15 per cent of New Hampshire Republicans are under 35 years of age, while a majority are over 50. Nationally, the Republican Party consists of over one-fourth young people today, and less than a majority are over 50.

Nixon is notably weaker among younger voters and stronger among older people.

Just Between Us—

By Bobby Westbrook

Now I know why, when I returned to the United States last fall, the U. S. Customs handed me a form to fill out about how much I had spent abroad. That amount couldn't have added much to the dollar drain, however, since the most we spent for hotels while we were traveling was $4 a night including breakfast, with the average more nearly $2 a night.

Which may explain why it's a little hard to promote "Travel USA". For two weeks in Sicily, traveling 3,000 miles and pooling all expenses, including boat transportation, coke stops, guide fees, meals tips and carriage tours, the total came to $100 each.

Which sum wouldn't finance a weekend in New York. In assessing the value of travel, at home or abroad, the thing that is impossible to put a price tag on is the feeling of participation you have with events going on where once your feet have trod.

In Sicily, we didn't happen to visit the major disaster areas of the earthquake since in western Sicily our route lay right along the coast. But how vividly I remember Trapani and Marsala, both of which felt the shocks and suffered some damage to buildings.

Trapani is a scythe-shaped city built on a spit of land jutting into the Tyrranean Sea. Compressed by the sea on three sides, the streets are so very narrow that, except for the main street, it is impossible to get an American-sized car, even our Ford, through.

To get our baggage to the hotel, they had to send a bicycle-barrow several blocks. The hotel and its surrounding buildings were so close together that I don't see how they could fall down.

Except, in an earthquake, it's the sidewise motion that does the damage, shaking loose the ground floors so that the superstructure just comes crashing down on top, as I learned earlier at Scopie in Yugoslavia where the buildings which hadn't turned to rubble in their earthquake two years before that were still propped by wooden logs between the ground and first story.

But to get back to Trapani I wonder what happened to Erice, perched like an eagle's nest on top of the mountains towering over Trapani, a perfect medieval village with buildings from the Phoenician, Greek, and Norman civilizations still standing.

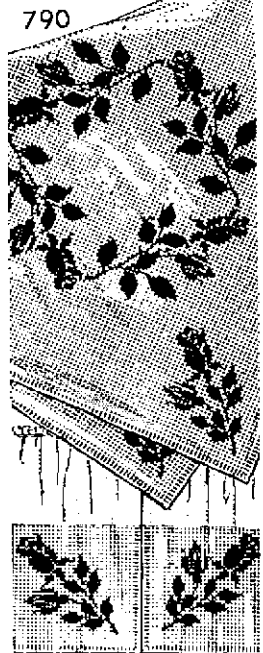

Of the Greek Temple at Segesta, dating from 5 B. C. and still intact. I don't wonder that the people of Trapani preferred waiting for the next shock out in the open countryside, but what I can't imagine, at all, is snow in Sicily, although Mount Etna wears a cap of snow for most of the year.

Well, it's a topsy-turvy world, and I'm grateful to have seen as much of it as I have, since it makes my armchair travel that much more vivid. And one consolation about our record-breaking cold spell is that at least we aren't apt to have an earthquake on top of it.

Art looms large for Stroud Club

Stroudsburg — The Stroud Community Woman's Club will sponsor East Stroudsburg High School students in the forthcoming Hallmark Art Contest for sophomores, juniors and seniors of the area schools.

The art contest was the chief item of business discussed at the Stroud Club's January meeting at the YMCA. The club voted to award two prizes, one in the sophomore-junior division and one in the senior division.

Mrs. LaDora Bolear is chairman for the club.

The contest is sponsored by the Monroe County Federation of Woman's Clubs with each club assigned a school.

The date was also announced for the Wide World of Art Show to be held April 21. Mrs. Robert Payne, Mrs. Ed Driebe and Mrs. John Sibley will be chairmen.

The program featured a rapid fire rundown on Tock's Island, by Frank Dressler, executive secretary of the Tock's Island Recreation Area Commission.

In spite of all the publicity and coverage the program has received, there are many average citizens of Monroe County who are quite unaware of what Tock's Island really is or what a service TIRAC is rendering this region, he said.

A lively session of question and answers followed his talk with Dressler fielding the answers on many phases of the vast project.

Refreshments were served from a Snowman tea table.

All members were urged to attend the February meeting for a celebration of "The Presidents' Birthdays." They will be entertained by the Tobystones from Tobystown Army Depot.

Doughnut days are set by Stroud Aux.

Stroudsburg — New officers of the Stroud Twp. Fire Co. Auxiliary were installed at the January meeting at the Fifth Street Municipal Building.

Mrs. Joan Silvers, past president, administered the oath of office to the new president, Mrs. Anne Van Brock, who in turn installed the other officers: Mrs. Thelma Layton, first vice president; Miss Alice Keller, second vice president; Mrs. Cora Hagerly, recording secretary; Mrs. Almira Schmidt, assistant; Mrs. Linda Berish, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Mary Lambert, treasurer and Mrs. Marion Meyers, Mrs. Adelaide Nauman and Mrs. Betty Muffley, trustees.

The auxiliary will make doughnuts on the first and third Thursday of the month. Anyone interested in helping may call either of the co-chairmen, Mrs. Almira Schmidt or Mrs. Ruby Dailey.

Reports were given of the annual Christmas party which took the form of a covered dish supper. Santa Claus sang and told stories to the children and handed out gifts to everyone. David Burris provided organ music throughout party.

Refreshments were served after the January meeting by Mrs. Marion Meyer and Mrs. Marion Fehr.

Coolbaugh PTA learns of guidance

Tobyhanna — The Guidance Services in the elementary school were outlined by Mrs. Florence Miller, guidance counselor at the Pocono Mountain High School at the January meeting of the Parent Teachers Assn. of the Coolbaugh Elementary School, Tobyhanna.

She illustrated her talk with a film strip.

At the PTA meeting with Rudolph Soldo presiding, it was decided that no PTA meeting would be held in February. Opening devotions were led by Mrs. Marilyn D. Laizo. Refreshments were served after the meeting by Mrs. Elmer Strong, Mrs. Wesley Meixell and Mrs. Raymond Knorr.

In hospital

Allentown — Ray Fehnel, former resident of Stroudsburg, now of Allentown has been admitted to the Allentown General Hospital for an operation. His room number is U 350, and the address is Allentown General Hospital, North 17th St., Allentown 18104.

He is the son of Mrs. Eleanor Bartleson of 974 Locust St., Falls River, Mass., and Ernest Bartleson of 22 Elm St., East Stroudsburg.

Rev. Charles Montgomery, pastor of Zion Methodist Church, Pen Argyl, officiated at the double ring ceremony.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was attended by her sister, Debra Bartholomew, as maid of honor.

Anthony Bartleson, brother of the bridegroom was best man.

A reception for the immediate families was held after the ceremony at the home of the bride's parents. The couple went to Massachusetts on their wedding trip.

Just Between Us—

By Bobby Westbrook

Now I know why, when I returned to the United States last Fall, the U. S. Customs handed me a form to fill out about how much I had spent abroad. That amount couldn't have added much to the dollar drain, however, since the most we spent for hotels while we were traveling was $4 a night including breakfast, with the average more nearly $2 a night.

Which may explain why it's a little hard to promote "Travel USA". For two weeks in Sicily, traveling 3,000 miles and pooling all expenses, including boat transportation, coke stops, guide fees, meals tips and carriage tours, the total came to $100 each.

Which sum wouldn't finance a weekend in New York. In assessing the value of travel, at home or abroad, the thing that is impossible to put a pricetag on is the feeling of participation you have with events going on where once your feet have trod.

In Sicily, we didn't happen to visit the major disaster areas of the earthquake since in western Sicily our route lay right along the coast. But how vividly I remember Trapani and Marsala, both of which felt the shocks and suffered some damage to buildings.

Trapani is a scythe-shaped city built on a spit of land jutting into the Tyrranean Sea. Compressed by the sea on three sides, the streets are so very narrow that, except for the main street, it is impossible to get an American-sized car, even our Ford, through.

To get our baggage to the hotel, they had to send a bicycle-barrow several blocks. The hotel and its surrounding buildings were so close together that I don't see how they could fall down.

Except, in an earthquake, it's the sidewise motion that does the damage, shaking loose the ground floors so that the superstructure just comes crashing down on top, as I learned earlier at Scopje in Yugoslavia where the buildings which hadn't turned to rubble in their earthquake two years before that were still propped by wooden logs between the ground and first story.

But to get back to Trapani I wonder what happened to Erice, perched like an eagle's nest on top of the mountains towering over Trapani, a perfect medieval village with buildings from the Phoenician, Greek, and Norman civilizations still standing.

Of the Greek Temple at Segesta, dating from 5 B. C. and still intact, I don't wonder that the people of Trapani preferred waiting for the next shock out in the open countryside, but what I can't imagine, at all, is snow in Sicily, although Mount Etna wears a cap of snow for most of the year.

Well, it's a topsy-turvy world, and I'm grateful to have seen as much of it as I have, since it makes my armchair travel that much more vivid. And one consolation about our record-breaking cold spell is that at least we aren't apt to have an earthquake on top of it.

Art looms large for Stroud Club

Stroudsburg — The Stroud Community Woman's Club will sponsor East Stroudsburg High School students in the forthcoming Hallmark Art Contest for sophomores, juniors and seniors of the area schools.

The art contest was the chief item of business discussed at the Stroud Club's January meeting at the YMCA. The club voted to award two prizes, one in the sophomore-junior division and one in the senior division. Mrs. LaDora Bolcar is chairman for the club.

The contest is sponsored by the Monroe County Federation of Woman's Clubs with each club assigned a school.

The date was also announced for the Wide World of Art Show to be held April 21. Mrs. Robert Payne, Mrs. Ed Driebe and Mrs. John Sibley will be chairmen. The program featured a rapid fire rundown on Tock's Island, by Frank Dressler, executive secretary of the Tock's Island Recreation Area Commission.

In spite of all the publicity and coverage the program has received, there are many average citizens of Monroe County who are quite unaware of what Tock's Island really is or what a service TIRAC is rendering this region, he said.

A lively session of question and answers followed his talk with Dressler fielding the answers on many phases of the vast project.

Refreshments were served from a Snowman tea table. All members were urged to attend the February meeting for a celebration of "The Presidents' Birthdays". They will be entertained by the Tobytones from Tobyhanna Army Depot.

Doughnut days are set by Stroud Aux.

Stroudsburg — New officers of the Stroud Twp. Fire Co. Auxiliary were installed at the January meeting at the Fifth Street Municipal Building.

Mrs. Joan Silvers, past president, administered the oath of office to the new president, Mrs. Anne Van Brook, who in turn installed the other officers: Mrs. Thelma Layton, first vice president; Miss Alice Keller, second vice president; Mrs. Cora Hagerty, recording secretary; Mrs. Almira Schmidt, assistant; Mrs. Linda Berish, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Mary Lambert, treasurer and Mrs. Marion Meyers, Mrs. Adelaide Nauman and Mrs. Betty Muffley, trustees.

The auxiliary will make doughnuts on the first and third Thursday of the month. Anyone interested in helping may call either of the co-chairmen, Mrs. Almira Schmidt or Mrs. Ruby Dailey.

Reports were given of the annual Christmas party which took the form of a covered dish supper. Santa Claus sang and told stories to the children and handed out gifts to everyone. David Burris provided organ music throughout party.

Refreshments were served after the January meeting by Mrs. Marion Meyer and Mrs. Marion Fehr.

Coolbaugh PTA learns of guidance

Tobyhanna — The Guidance Services in the elementary school were outlined by Mrs. Florence Miller, guidance counselor at the Pocono Mountain High School at the January meeting of the Parent Teachers Assn. of the Coolbaugh Elementary School, Tobyhanna.

She illustrated her talk with a film strip.

At the PTA meeting with Rudolph Soldo presiding, it was decided that no PTA meeting would be held in February. Opening devotions were led by Mrs. Marilyn D. Latzo. Refreshments were served after the meeting by Mrs. Elmer Strong, Mrs. Wesley Meixell and Mrs. Raymond Knorr.

Cresco Marine saves life of scout dog in Vietnam

L-Cpl. Ralph Williams and scout dog 'Major.'

DA NANG, VIETNAM — "He had saved my life several times," said Lance Corporal Ralph H. McWilliams, 18, of Cresco, Third Military Police Battalion, First Marine Division, "so the least I could do was try to save his."

McWilliams had carried his wounded friend in his arms for nearly two miles to a helicopter pick-up point and safety rather than have him die in the jungle.

Dog handler

McWilliams is a dog handler and his friend is a 90-pound, tawny German Shepherd scout dog named "Major."

The two were accompanying a reconnaissance patrol when hit by an enemy force. During the ensuing fire fight, in which four of the enemy were killed, Major was wounded by shrapnel in the right foreleg.

"It was only a small piece," said McWilliams, "but enough to stiffen his leg."

As the recon patrol moved toward its pick-up point, the limping Major was slowing its progress. The decision was made to destroy the faithful dog, but McWilliams chose his way to save his friend.

"We had been a team for three months and he had already saved my life," explained McWilliams.

"I just couldn't destroy him like that. His wound may have been slowing the patrol's progress, but he wasn't hurt bad enough to destroy him for humane reasons."

"I lost one dog because of a heat stroke earlier in the year," said McWilliams, "and I didn't want to lose Major."

Ralph is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert McWilliams of Cresco.

Much new in home repair tools

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer
How long has it been since you cased your local hardware store or lumber yard to see what is available?

One often goes along using old-fashioned methods for home repairs without even realizing that new ideas and new materials are on the market. And once in awhile, you do see something advertised in a national publication that will be unavailable in your community.

Small hardware stores and lumber yards can't always afford to stock every item. Once it is tested and they have calls for it, they may well order it. But they have lots of things that go begging because people aren't aware of them.

It's the same problem that confronts notion stores, which sell trimmings. There are all sorts of new home decorating ideas such as iron-on velvet ribbon and ready-pasted furniture braids—real time savers. But many women never enter a notions store unless they want thread, bias binding or a thimble.

Hardware stores and lumber yards should be shopped occasionally the way one shops a supermarket. Wares are pretty much within eye and arm reach, and a trip around the store may result in experimenting with new putties, weather stripping, glues, locks, power tools, paints, stains and even mops.

Many hardware stores have dusty items. These are discontinued wares, often because people never suspected they were there. Look up toward the ceiling—it could be a small crystal chandelier or a bird cage, or look on the walls for something that is gathering dust. You may find a real bargain.

Most hardware store proprietors are encouraged by browsers and are happy to help you select even a bag of tacks. They generally will let you wander around inspecting merchandise, without following you like bloodhounds.

Lumber people permit wandering too but, often are reluctant to act as an answering service. They figure anyone should know how to use a mitering box or that a two by four is really 1½ inches.

For example one woman needed one-inch molding in four strips—two, one foot long and two, two feet long. She planned to use it as a panel for wallpaper in the center of a flush door. Her request came through like this: 2 pieces one inch long and two pieces two-inches long.

East Stroudsburg, Bath have top entries in 31st Wyckoff Art Show

By BOBBY WESTBROOK

Family Fare Editor
STROUDSBURG — Don Johnson of Bath won first prize in the professional class at the 31st annual Wyckoff Open Art Show, which opens to the public today in the Keystone Room.

Henry Krug, East Stroudsburg R.D. 1, captured first place in the amateur division.

The judges had a wide variety of technique, media, and mood to choose from in the 215 paintings exhibited in this year's show, representing 215 artists. The professional class represents 51 artists, the largest number ever to exhibit.

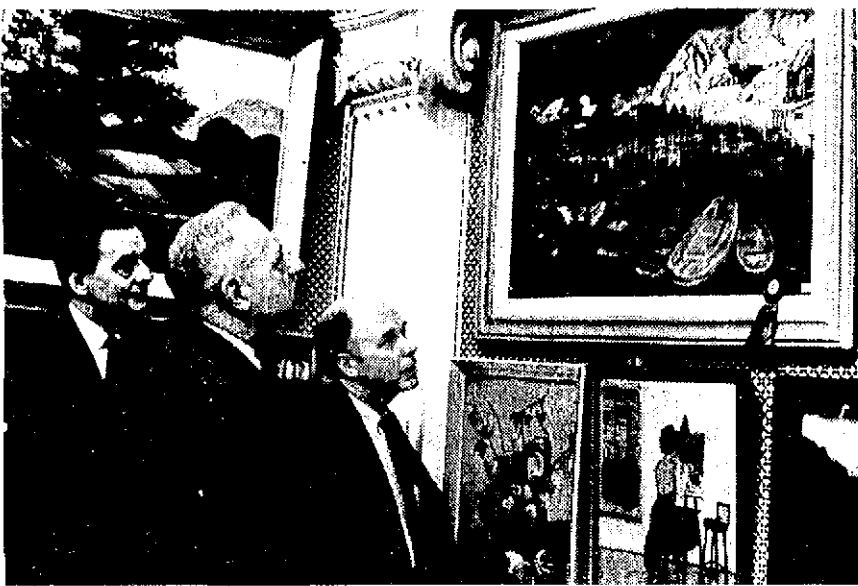

Second place in the professional class went to Robin Kilgour of Minisink Hills, and third place to William Brockway of Wharton, N.J. Honorable mentions were awarded paintings by Eugene McInerney, Richard Ludwig of Stroudsburg R.D., and Fred Beaver of Stroudsburg.

Carol Blake of Stokes Mill, was awarded second place in the amateur division, with Craig Ealey of Pen Argyl, third, and Tom Tonkin, Bangor, Jennie L. Sheen, and Lynn Dungan winning honorable mentions.

The judges, all from the art department at Kutztown State College, were Dr. Horace Heilman, director of art education; Dr. Harold Mantz, professor of art education, and Thomas Quirk, assistant professor.

Judges enthusiastic

They were enthusiastic about both the size of the show and the paintings exhibited.

Studying Henry Krug's painting, "Midnight Sun" which won first place in the amateur division at the 31st Wyckoff Art Show, are the judges, all from Kutztown State College. Dr. Horace Heilman, Dr. Harold Mantz and Thomas Quirk.

In Johnson's prizewinning painting, entitled simply, "Stump," they found a close observation of nature in the rotting wood, the crumbling bark, and bending blades of grass translated into a mood, feeling and compositions.

In contrast, the second prize, "Empty Trucks," the emphasis of the water color was on the pattern and the trucks themselves only important as they created the abstract painting which transcended its subject matter to become something quite different.

There was pattern, too, in Brockway's bright painting, but it was pattern with great humor. Entitled "First Day of Trout Fishing," there are thousands of cars and thousands of fishermen. "The only thing not in the painting is fish," commented one judge.

Of the amateur division, they commented: "I think these artists are too humble. Many of the paintings could be in the professional class."

They praised the technique of Krug's "Midnight Sun" with boats in a far-north harbor, pointing out how shafts of sunlight and the shadows contributed to the central theme.

Comparing Mrs. Blake's untitled painting of snow-covered mountains to Johnson's realism in "Stump," Dr. Heilman said, "This is realism."

E. A. Gruver funeral held

STROUDSBURG — Funeral services for Mrs. Ethel A. Gruver, 78, of 204 Clermont Ave., Stroudsburg, were held Wednesday afternoon in the Dunkelberger & Klotzch Funeral Home with Rev. William C. Leopold officiating.

Burial was in the Laurel Hill Cemetery, Orangeville, Pa.

BY PETE GRADY
Pocono Record Reporter
EAST STROUDSBURG — A Pennsylvania State Senator, dedicated to advancing education throughout the Commonwealth, told 71 East Stroudsburg State College graduates that they stand on "the shifting grounds of the 20th Century" during mid-year commencement exercises in the East Stroudsburg State College auditorium Wednesday.

Sen. Jeanette F. Reibman of Easton, who represents the District delivered the major commencement address which ran a colorful gamut of topics from our historical past to the modern day hippie.

Mrs. Reibman mentioned January as not only the month for that old Latin, two-faced God, Janus, with one face looking back and the other forward; but also as "a time for taking inventory."

She said that this "nation has never been so full of false prophets" but then rode back through history, highlighting America's fighting spirit when Washington stopped the British at Fort Mifflin and our "opportunities saw us through" when we withstood the invasion of our three large cities, New York, Boston and Philadelphia.

Liberty
"Our potential expanded," she said, "because it was built on the cornerstone of liberty and duty."

Returning to the present she saw our interests lying in the future.

"We are confronted with a melange of opportunities, a period in history in which mankind takes a turn for the better, a period in which it is the fashion to excuse the irrational behavior (of some of our young) because of unsettled times."

She said the graduates had their work cut out for them in scrutinizing "the unhappy catalogue of this generation."

Listing the three great American advances in the 20th Century, food and industrial production and the computer, she put down the hippies as a mere by-product of this age, citing their "sackcloth and ashes dress" as "a ceremonial reproach."

"You will help decide how to use these benefits," she said in describing the riches and blessings of our industrial might.

Food, wealth and time, she said, are investments in the future, this is your legacy.

She championed technical assistance to those nations who need it. She adhered to the motto, "separate but equal education is not equal."

Stressing equality of educational opportunities she said, "What we do for one child, we do for all children."

S-burg ok's vo-tech articles

STROUDSBURG — Following some discussion of the need for a vocational technical school, the Stroudsburg Area School Board unanimously adopted the articles of agreement and operation of the proposed Monroe County Vo-Tech School.

Decision on the two articles seemed to be tottering on a tightrope, however, since many directors did not want their concurrent actions to be misconstrued as meaning that the School District favors a Vo-Tech school.

Ray Price was the most concerned director over the agreements and began what amounted to a lengthy discussion on the extent of a sanctioned articles.

Ray Roberts, chairman, pointed out that the articles of agreement and operation are only guidelines which will be followed in establishing a Vo-Tech School.

Roberts went one step further, however, and stated that if any Stroudsburg School director was opposed to a vocational education program or did not favor certain aspects of the articles of agreement, it was the time to dissent.

None dissented, however.

The articles of agreement and operation will now be forwarded to the State Department of Public Instruction. The agreements will be reviewed by the department and will be approved, rejected or revised.

If the department revises the agreements, they will again be reviewed by local school officials for action. If the state approves the articles, then the four participating school districts will officially vote for a Vo-Tech School.

The approval of a Vo-Tech School will come from the Monroe County School Board.

Roberts explained that when the time comes for voting in favor of the Vo-Tech School, it will mean an immediate expenditure of about $20,000. The money would be used to hire an executive director, who will direct the formation of the school.

The School Board also received an annual health inspection report of the school from the State Health Department.

The report primarily listed poor lighting conditions in the school as hazards. Acting District Superintendent Samuel O. Wells, III, said that some of the lighting conditions have been corrected. He added that others, which were listed as hazards, were such because the lighting standards have changed.

Directors agreed, however, that lighting in the hallway of the high school is poor. The hazards, however, were generally termed as minor by Wells.

In other action, the board accepted the resignation of Fred Beers as high school custodian and William Briggs as custodian in the Anasimuk Elementary School.

The board also hired Mrs. Dimitra White as first and second grade teacher at a $5,000 annual salary. She was a substitute teacher in the Hamilton Township School.

Permission was granted to a group of adults to use the Hamilton Elementary School gymnasium to play basketball one night a week.

Use of the high school auditorium was also granted to the Society for the Preservation and Encouragement of Barber Shop Quartet Singing in America on March 23.

A common school calendar for 1968-69 between the four school districts was also approved. The calendar lists 184 student days and 187 teacher days.

The calendar lists a longer Christmas vacation. The vacation is from December 23 to January 5. The schools will also begin Thanksgiving vacation November 28, which includes the first day of deer hunting.

The Johnson Service Company was also granted a maximum $400 maintenance contract for heating and ventilating in the junior high school addition for one year. The firm has a $1,000 maximum for the high school.

ESSC to be represented at meeting on drug use

EAST STROUDSBURG — Dr. LeRoy J. Koehler, president of East Stroudsburg State College, said Wednesday that his school will be represented at a meeting of college presidents in Harrisburg on Monday.

"I'm not certain whether it will be me or another representative, but we will be at the meeting," Koehler said.

Dr. Thomas W. Georges invited presidents of all 56 Pennsylvania colleges Wednesday to a Harrisburg meeting Jan. 22 to discuss the use of drugs by college students in the Commonwealth.

Georges, who doubles as public welfare secretary and acting secretary of health, extended the invitation as chairman of the Drug, Device and Cosmetic Board, located in the Health Department.

His invitation went out following a news conference earlier in the day by Gov. Shafer, at which time the chief executive announced he had ordered an investigation in the case of six college students who were blinded under the influence of LSD.

Georges invited the presidents to present to the board any information on the subject of drug abuse among college students.

"We would welcome the presence of any members of your student body whom you feel could make a contribution to this meeting," he said in his invitation.

"We have never had any trouble on campus, but that's not to say that none of the students have never used drugs," the ESSC president related.

"We have kept a constant check on the possibility that drugs could appear on campus, but as of now we feel quite certain that the problem doesn't exist here," Koehler concluded.

EAST STROUDSBURG — A Pennsylvania State Senator, dedicated to advancing education throughout the Commonwealth, told 71 East Stroudsburg State College graduates that they stand on "the shifting grounds of the 20th Century" during mid-year commencement exercises in the East Stroudsburg State College auditorium Wednesday.

Sen. Jeanette F. Reibman of Easton, who represents the District delivered the major commencement address which ran a colorful gamut of topics from our historical past to the modern day hippie.

Mrs. Reibman mentioned January as not only the month for that old Latin, two-faced God, Janus, with one face looking back and the other forward; but also as "a time for taking inventory."

She said that this "nation has never been so full of false prophets" but then rode back through history, highlighting America's fighting spirit when Washington stopped the British at Fort Mifflin and our "opportunities saw us through" when we withstood the invasion of our three large cities, New York, Boston and Philadelphia.

Liberty

"Our potential expanded," she said, "because it was built on the cornerstone of liberty and duty."

Returning to the present she saw our interests lying in the future.

"We are confronted with a melange of opportunities, a period in history in which mankind takes a turn for the better, a period in which it is the fashion to excuse the irrational behavior (of some of our young) because of unsettled times."

She said the graduates had their work cut out for them in scrutinizing "the unhappy catalogue of this generation."

Listing the three great American advances in the 20th Century, food and industrial production and the computer, she put down the hippies as a mere by-product of this age, citing their "sackcloth and ashes dress" as "a ceremonial reproach."

"You will help decide how to use these benefits," she said in describing the riches and blessings of our industrial might.

Food, wealth and time, she said, are investments in the future, this is your legacy.

She championed technical assistance to those nations who need it. She adhered to the motto, "separate but equal education is not equal."

Stressing equality of educational opportunities she said, "What we do for one child, we do for all children."

BLOOMSBURG — Warrior mat coach Clyde "Red" Witman, after seeing a 22-meet win streak snapped at the hands of Bloomsburg, said Wednesday night that, "Not being able to use Jerry McDonald," probably cost the Warriors the match.

The 145 pounder was sidelined with a flu and was unable to wrestle against the Huskies last night.

"We got excellent performances out of some kids, and weak performances out of others," Witman said following the 19-18 loss to Bloom.

A surprise performance came by Dan Rossi at 152 who beat defending state college champion Joe Gerst, 3-1.

"We were lucky to get a draw with Russo," Witman added. Russo is a 137 pounder who beat Warrior Ned Bushong in the Wilkes Tournament.

"We were weak in some areas," Witman added as the middle weights, Pitzer at 160 and DeVore at 152, both lost their matches.

The Warrior coach re-emphasized his inability to use McDonald as a crucial blow in the match.

"Read only lost by one point and Purdy was penalized in his match," Witman added.

"It was the little things that beat us," he said but admitted that the Huskies were up for the meet and "wrestled a good match."

NCAA sets new grid rulings

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP) — The sucker shift, clipping along the line of scrimmage and faked fair catches were outlawed in college football Wednesday by the rules committee of the National Collegiate Athletic Association.

The committee also yielded to a strong demand from college coaches and abolished a one-year-old rule allowing only ends and backs to go downfield under punts with the snap of the ball. Committee chairman Ivan B. Williamson, athletic director of the University of Wisconsin, said the new regulations "will make football a safer game."

The sucker shift was eliminated by prohibiting interior linemen from moving once they assumed a position in the line. Under the old rule, the linemen frequently shifted for the purpose of drawing the opposition players offside.

The committee said it led to frequent injuries, and caused one fatality last season in California, because players pulled offside sometimes are hit before they can return to their positions and get set for the play.

Cavaliers file protest

EAST STROUDSBURG — Cavalier basketball coach Chic Daniels confirmed Wednesday night he has filed an official protest against Bangor claiming an infraction of league rules against the Staters.

Daniels said the game was played under protest from the start when he learned Bangor was to be the official scorer for the contest.

According to the Cavalier coach league rules stipulate that at an away game the visiting team supplies the official scorer and the official timer is the home timer.

Daniels said he filed an immediate protest with game officials before the game began when he learned the East Stroudsburg scorer was not allowed to keep the record book.

He said the $25 protest fee and a letter was sent to league officials yesterday.

Bethlehem's swimmers top Cavaliers

BETHLEHEM — East Stroudsburg High School went down to its third loss in five swimming outings Wednesday night as Freedom High of Bethlehem splashed to a 71-24 victory in the latter's pool.

George Wolbers presented the Cavaliers with the first pool record ever recorded by the team when he scored 116.1 points while winning the diving event.

Charley Wolbers, George's brother, also accounted for a school record while finishing second in the 200-yard freestyle and Dan Wilkins won the 100-yard breaststroke grind in 1:14.7 for another school mark.

P. Mountain whips Bears, 73-29

CRESCO — Pocono Mountain High School tied a school defensive record Wednesday night using a tight man-to-man defense to humiliate winless Pleasant Valley 73-29 and gain a first place tie in the Southern Division of Lehigh-Northampton League action.

The Cardinals will go after the first half title Friday night at home against Southern Lehigh, also 4-0.

Big Gary Kirkwood popped in 14 points in the lopsided win and pulled down 11 rebounds; leaving the senior 14 shy of the 1,000 rebound mark.

Kirkwood also played a standout defensive game against the Bears, blocking nine shots.

The Cardinals, led by Steve McMaster with 16 points, tied a 1961 record when they only allowed Bangor the identical 29-point total.

The Bears, tied for the league cellar, trailed throughout the contest and went scoreless for the first two minutes of play, managing only two field goals in the first period and trailed 36-11 at the half.

The Cardinals, with four men in double figures, were never behind and controlled the boards with a commanding 45 rebounds over the Bears' 17.

Taking fewer shots than their usual 75-shot average, the Cardinals hit on 55 per cent in the league win.

Alcindor; 'still uncertain'

LOS ANGELES (AP) — All-American Lew Alcindor of UCLA's No. 1-ranked basketball team was released from the university's eye clinic Wednesday but remained uncertain whether he will play against second-ranked Houston in Texas Saturday night.

The same uncertainty applies to the Bruins' nonconference tilt at UCLA Thursday night with the University of Portland. The 7-foot-plus junior checked out of the Jules Stein Eye Clinic and, wearing a patch over his injured right eye, attended an 11 a.m. class.

"Coach (John) Wooden said he doesn't know if Alcindor will play in either game," said Vic Kelley, director of the athletic news service at UCLA.

Alcindor suffered the eye injury in a game with California's Bears at Berkeley Friday night during a rebound play with the Bears' 6-5 forward, Tom Henderson.

Wooden said UCLA game films show that Henderson accidentally jammed Alcindor's eye. Cal's coach, Rene Herrera said the film indicated the injury was self-inflicted.

The Bruins' big game of the week, if not the year, is the one to be nationally televised from Houston's Astrodome.

Wooden's warriors will be seeking their 47th consecutive triumph Thursday night. UCLA is 12-0 this season and Houston is 16-0.

The eye injury suffered by Lew Alcindor has not changed any of the strategy Guy Lewis is developing for his Houston Cougars to use against top-ranked UCLA in basketball's showdown Saturday night before an Astrodome crowd of 55,000.

"All I feel like saying is Guy Lewis' intuition says Alcindor will play," Lewis, coach of the second-ranked Cougars, said Wednesday.

Lettieri to captain Maroon 11

EASTON — Rick Lettieri of McKeesport, Pa., a linebacker, has been named captain of the 1968 Lafayette College football team, Athletic Director Olav B. Kollevoll announced Monday evening at a banquet for the squad.

Lettieri, a 5-8, 180-pound junior, as been a regular on the Leopards defensive unit for the past two seasons and was among the team leaders in tackles-made during the 1967 season despite missing one game because of a leg injury.

Lettieri was named Defensive Back of the Week on the ECAC Division II All-East team following Lafayette's victory over Washington & Lee last fall. He had intercepted a pass against the Generals, returning it 44 yards, aided in a key fumble recovery on the Lafayette two-yard line, and made 15 tackles.

Jumbled lineup fatal; Cook misses pin

BLOOMSBURG — The East Stroudsburg State College wrestling team Wednesday night, without the services of standout Jerry McDonald, had its 22-dual meet winning streak snapped by Bloomsburg State, 19-18, on the winner's mats.

McDonald, out of action with a flu virus, did not wrestle at 145 pounds, forcing Warrior coach Red Witman to substitute Jim Purdy who only could manage a tie with Bloom's Rich Lepley, 4-4.

In the lower weight classes, Bloomsburg's undefeated Wayne Hiem, down a weight to meet Stroudsburg's Frank Coco at 115, worked over the local grappler, 10-4, and a late rally by Coco failed.

Leading 3-0 in the match, The Huskies put Jeff Prosseda, down from 130, against the Warriors' Steve Bryant and earned a close 5-4 decision putting them ahead 6-0 in the 123-pound match.

Wrestling at 130, Warrior co-captain Ned Bushong brought the score to 6-5 with a pin over Bloomsburg's Greg Grabfelter in 4:58.

The former Wilkes Open Champ was in control throughout the match and leading, 7-0, when he scored the pin.

In a surprise performance former Parkland star Tom Best, in his first appearance of the season, managed a tie with Huskie standout Ron Russo at 137. It was Russo who in the Wilkes Tournament defeated Bushong at 137.

With the Huskies leading, 8-7, Purdy was called twice for stalling, while his opponent Rich Lepley, received a warning as the two battled to a 4-4 draw, giving the Huskies a 10-9 margin.

Warrior Dan Rossi turned in one of the best performances of the nip and tuck meet beating Bloom's Joe Gerst at 152, 3-1. Gerst is a defending NATA champion but has been out for most of the season with a knee injury.

Gerst had wrestled at 167 against Oswego and was beaten. The match was tied 1-1 when a late takedown by the Warriors earned the decision and put East Stroudsburg out in front 12-10 for a short-lived lead.

A 160-pound "grudge match" had ESSC's John Pitzer facing two-time New Jersey high school champion Arnie Thompson and the Warriors came out on the losing end, 4-1.

Thompson pinned Pitzer last year in a freshman meet. With the score 13-12, Huskie senior Steve Peters took a 10-3 decision from Warrior sophomore Bob DeVore at 167, making the score 16-12.

ESSC's All-American Gary Cook tumbled Huskie John Stetzman, at 177 but failed to get a needed pin, winning the decision, 13-4.

Stetzman, with a pair of stalling points against him and a third being counted, dropped to the mat to allow Cook the takedown, avoiding disqualification that would have given ESSC five points.

With the score 16-15 going into the 191 match, ESSC last minute substitute Jerry Reed, wrestling his first match of the season, lost, 7-6, to Dave Jones. Reed pinned Jones last year.

The Warriors failed to get a pin from Rich Shumaker with the score 19-15 as Huskie Bob Jeannette held on in a 6-2 defeat and the match ended 19-18.

The Huskies upped their season record to 5-1-1 while the Warriors dropped to 5-1 and will face Millersville at home Jan. 25.

NCAA sets new grid rulings

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP) — The sucker shift, clipping along the line of scrimmage and faked fair catches were outlawed in college football Wednesday by the rules committee of the National Collegiate Athletic Association.

The committee also yielded to a strong demand from college coaches and abolished a one-year-old rule allowing only ends and backs to go downfield under punts with the snap of the ball.

Committee chairman Ivan B. Williamson, athletic director of the University of Wisconsin, said the new regulations "will make football a safer game."

The sucker shift was eliminated by prohibiting interior linemen from moving once they assumed a position in the line. Under the old rule, the linemen frequently shifted for the purpose of drawing the opposition players offside.

The committee said it led to frequent injuries, and caused one fatality last season in California, because players pulled offside sometimes are hit before they can return to their positions and get set for the play.

Cavaliers file protest

EAST STROUDSBURG — Cavalier basketball coach Chic Daniels confirmed Wednesday night he has filed an official protest against Bangor claiming an infraction of league rules against the Slaters.

Daniels said the game was played under protest from the start when he learned Bangor was to be the official scorer for the contest.

According to the Cavalier coach league rules stipulate that at an away game the visiting team supplies the official scorer and the official timer is the home timer.

Daniels said he filed an immediate protest with game officials before the game began when he learned the East Stroudsburg scorer was not allowed to keep the record book.

He said the $25 protest fee and a letter was sent to league officials yesterday.

Charley Wolbers, George's brother, also accounted for a school record while finishing second in the 200-yard freestyle and Dan Wilkins won the 100-yard breaststroke grind in 1:14.7 for another school mark.

ESSC's Gary Cook still number one grappler

EAST STROUDSBURG — Despite the praise going to all the outstanding underclassmen on East Stroudsburg State's undefeated wrestling team, Gary Cook is still the number one wrestler for a number one team.

The Senior co-captain of the Warriors is unquestionably the finest wrestler in ESSC's history. Before he graduates, he will hold virtually every single season and career mark in East Stroudsburg's wrestling record book.

Already this season, Cook became the first three-time winner of the Coast Guard Invitational Tournament. Two years ago, he defeated defending national champion at 177 pounds, Fred Fozzard of Oklahoma State for the title.

Cook's biggest goal this season is to bring ESSC its first national champion. In his sophomore year he finished fourth and last year he came in third at the NCAA's. In his last attempt at the elusive title, one of the very few he hasn't already won, if he gets to the finals, he must probably meet Fozzard.

Cook has defeated Fozzard once, and twice lost close decisions to his western opponent. Cook, a 1961 graduate of Lock Haven High School,

JIM MURRAY

Oakland who?

MIAMI — The Green Bay Packers beat a football team here Sunday—I didn't catch the name.

Nobody you'd know. I mean, they didn't leave their name, and nobody seemed to know them—or who invited them. Does the "Oakland Raiders" mean anything to you? "Oakland Raiders?" Something like that, anyway.

These guys are as anonymous as a threatening phone call. Nothing they did on the field will put their pictures on the front page, either.

It was the first team the Packers played in a long time where their captains leaned forward at the introductions and said politely, "Would you mind repeating that?"

I presume the next of kin will be notified, but as of this writing they are still in John Does. They did wear their names on their uniforms, which was some help. Not much, because the names are hardly on everyone's tongue. I mean to say, Gene Upshaw and Rodger Bird are hardly household words in American football. And I can see why. The Packers on the other hand, didn't even need numbers.

The last time anything this one-sided took place, one of the parties was blindfolded. A few more games against the AFL and the Green Bay Packers will be qualified to bomb lifeboats. Or hold kittens under a full bathtub.

If you're the kind of person who stops at three-way wrecks, you would have enjoyed the game.

I don't know what went wrong, really. I mean, Oakland never had this much trouble with the Denver Broncos. The Green Bay Packers have now played only two AFL teams in their history, and the score to date is Packers 68, AFL 24. You would think they could decide next year's thing by mail.

The statistics were closer than the game. That's nothing. Kansas and South Carolina are closer than the game.

That's because the Packers kind of lost interest when the score hit 33-7. The crowd had beat them to it by 30 minutes. I personally thought the game went down hill immediately after the coin-toss.

The Packers rolled up 325 yards. What's Their Names? rolled up 291, most of it in the last few minutes of play. 'S not the way to beat the Packers. To beat the Packers, you have to roll up yards before you leave the clubhouse. In fact, that's the ONLY way you can roll up early points.

They call this game the "Super Bowl," but it wouldn't make a walk-on fight at the Garden. I know some fighters who have a tougher time with their sparring partners than Green Bay does with the AFL.

I don't mean to suggest the AFL doesn't belong on the same field with the NFL—just that they don't belong on one with the Green Bay Packers. That's no disgrace. You can beat the Packers. But not when there's $15,000 up. Better teams than the Oakland Raiders have found that out.

The Packers played a very balanced attack. Their offense scored two touchdowns, their defense scored one, and their field goal kicker put everything between the uprights including one that didn't go much higher off the ground than a long putt. When Oakland saw that and the lucky bounce, it must have felt like the guy who found himself playing golf with St. Peter.

The Whozits' quarterback threw two touchdown passes, but that wasn't his main contribution to the game. The completion he threw that MATTERED was to Herb Adderley. It was Daryle Lamonica's longest pass play of the game, and it resulted in a minus-seven for his side. I thought the Oakland's played thereafter with reckless pessimism. If they didn't, they should have.

All I got to say is, don't look at me. Never laid eyes on these guys before in my life. But I'll bet they check into their hotel tonight as "John Smith." Unless they jump up a winner pretty soon, AFL is going to stand for "Anonymous Football League."

JIM MURRAY

Oakland who?

MIAMI — The Green Bay Packers beat a football team here Sunday—I didn't catch the name.

Nobody you'd know. I mean, they didn't leave their name, and nobody seemed to know them or who invited them. Does the "Oakland Faders" mean anything to you? "Oakland Traders?" Something like that, anyway.

These guys are as anonymous as a threatening phone call. Nothing they did on the field will put their pictures on the front page, either.

It was the first team the Packers played in a long time where their captains leaned forward at the introductions and said politely, "Would you mind repeating that?"

I presume the next of kin will be notified, but as of this writing they are still 11 John Does. They did wear their names on their uniforms, which was some help. Not much, because the names are hardly on everyone's tongue. I mean to say, Gene Upshaw and Rodger Bird are hardly household words in American football. And I can see why. The Packers on the other hand, didn't even need numbers.

The last time anything this one-sided took place, one of the parties was blindfolded. A few more games against the AFL and the Green Bay Packers will be qualified to bomb lifeboats. Or hold kittens under a full bathtub.

If you're the kind of person who stops at three-way wrecks, you would have enjoyed the game.

I don't know what went wrong, really. I mean, Oakland never had this much trouble with the Denver Broncos. The Green Bay Packers have now played only two AFL team in their history, and the score to date is Packers 68, AFL 24. You would think they could decide next year's thing by mail.

The statistics were closer than the game. That's nothing. Kansas and South Carolina are closer than the game.

That's because the Packers kind of lost interest when the score hit 33-7. The crowd had beat them by it 30 minutes. I personally thought the game went down hill immediately after the coin-toss.

The Packers rolled up 325 yards. What's Their-Names? rolled up 291, most of it in the last few minutes of play. 'S not the way to beat the Packers. To beat the Packers, you have to roll up yards before you leave the clubhouse. In fact, that's the ONLY way you can roll up early points.

They call this game the "Super Bowl," but it wouldn't make a walk-on fight at the Garden. I know some fighters who have a tougher time with their sparring partners than Green Bay does with the AFL.

I don't mean to suggest the AFL doesn't belong on the same field with the NFL—just that they don't belong on one with the Green Bay Packers. That's no disgrace. You can beat the Packers. But not when there's $15,000 up. Better teams than the Oakland Whozits have found that out.

The Packers played a very balanced attack. Their offense scored two touchdowns, their defense scored one, and their field goal kicker put everything between the uprights including one that didn't go much higher off the ground than a long putt. When Oakland saw that and the lucky bounce, it must have felt like the guy who found himself playing golf with St. Peter.

The Whozits' quarterback threw two touchdown passes, but that wasn't his main contribution to the game. The completion he threw that MATTERED was to Herb Adderley. It was Daryle Lamonica's longest pass play of the game, and it resulted in a minus-seven for his side... I thought the Oakland played thereafter with reckless pessimism. If they didn't, they should have.

All I got to say is, don't look at me. Never laid eyes on these guys before in my life. But I'll bet they check into their hotel tonight as "John Smith." Unless they jump up a winner pretty soon, AFL is going to stand for "Anonymous Football League."

ESSC's Gary Cook still number one grappler

EAST STROUDSBURG — Despite the praise going to all the outstanding underclassman on East Stroudsburg State's undefeated wrestling team, Gary Cook is still the number one wrestler for a number one team.

The Senior co-captain of the Warriors is unquestionably the finest wrestler in ESSC's history. Before he graduates, he will hold virtually every single season and career mark in East Stroudsburg's wrestling record book.

Already this season, Cook became the first three time winner of the Coast Guard Invitational Tournament. Two years ago, he defeated defending national champion at 177 pounds, Fred Fozzard of Oklahoma State for the title.

Cook's biggest goal this season is to bring ESSC its first national champion. In his sophomore year he finished fourth and last year he came in third at the NCAA's. In his last attempt at the elusive title, one of the very few he hasn't already won, if he gets to the finals, he must probably meet Fozzard. Cook has defeated Fozzard once, and twice lost close decisions to his western opponent. Cook, a 1961 graduate of Lock Haven High School,

Volunteers patrol against crime in Harrisburg

By LEE LINDER
Associated Press Writer
PHILADELPHIA (AP) — In the crime-plagued, integrated Allison Hill area of Harrisburg, 14 unarmed volunteers patrolled 4½ hours every night in an experiment aimed at halting rapists, muggers, robbers and teen-age toughs.

It ran for many months last year, ending just before New Year's Day with police and residents hailing the experiment. Snow and cold presently seems to be working well as a crime deterrent.

Patrols were made by non-uniformed citizens, working in pairs. They had no arrest powers but were supported by Police Chief C. Preston Price.

The Rev. Harold E. Posey, pastor of the Trinity Methodist Church who helped launch the experimental patrols, emphasized from the start, "we are not vigilantes."

He described it as "a concerned citizens presence on the street."

"Monitors carried flashlights and whistles to make a lot of noise and scare people in case of trouble," said the ministers. "Police were notified immediately."

Price praised the project, and Posey indicated it could be revived when warmer weather returns.

—ap—

HELP WANTED: Fairview Borough, with 1,399 residents in Erie County, recently advertised in the Erie Morning News that it "is accepting applications for police officers to become chief of police after a probationary period."

—ap—

FACTS & FIGURES: Deaths in Pennsylvania, from all causes, are about 14 per cent higher than the national rate. The State Health Department says this doesn't mean Pennsylvania is a less healthy place, rather notes the median age is 32 compared with 29.5 nationally, while more than 10 per cent of state residents are 65 or older. Heart disease is still the biggest killer, followed by cancer, strokes, pneumonia, hardening of the arteries and diabetes.

... Hunter safety depends on common gun sense, says the state. It warns that accidents occur when hunters fail to wear bright, reflective and comfortable waterproofed clothing, and when they forget to assume their gun always is loaded.

The Trexler Lehigh Game Reserve in Upper Perkiomen, Bucks County, features buffalo, black bear, palomino horses, six varieties of deer, mountain sheep and goats, llamas, ostriches and prairie dogs.

WHAT'S QUOTABLE: "Please use our seats wisely and please don't scratch your initials on our desks." — Democratic State Rep. James J. A. Gallagher of Bucks County when the 163 delegates to the Constitutional Convention met in the House chamber at the state capital.

PURLOINED CHUCKLE: "Small opportunities are often the best many of great enterprises." — Homesland Messenger.

Merger unit to elect new officers

STROUDSBURG — A new slate of officers for the Inter-Borough Merger Committee will be elected during a meeting Thursday at 7:30 p.m. in the Penn Stroud Hotel.

The merger study, now a Jaycee program, will be relinquished to representatives of the 10 area service groups comprising the committee at Thursday's meeting.

Ray Carmen, representative of the Pennsylvania Economy League will be guest speaker for the event.

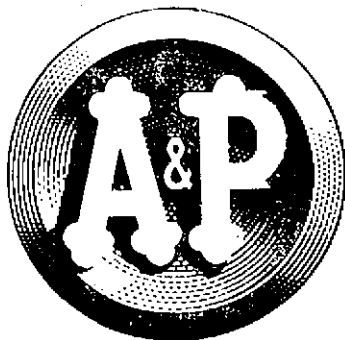

Film shown to Rotary

STROUDSBURG — Glen W. Kissel, manager at Pocono Manor Inn, presented movies of "Ice Harvesting" in the Poconos at the Stroudsburg Rotary Club meeting.

One film photographed at Pocono Manor showed the cutting of ice, transporting the ice by horse and wagon to the ice house and packing the ice in the ice house. The other film was photographed at Stillwater Lake, once the site of a large commercial "Ice Harvesting" operation.

what kind of coffeemaker
do you use?

It really doesn't matter.

Any coffeemaker can give you a good cup of coffee, providing you use a fine fresh coffee that is ground exactly right for your coffeemaker.

We've always known that the correct grind is important to coffee flavor.

That's why, years ago, we developed Custom-Grinding.

That's why we don't have just one or two grinds but seven different grinds... to fit any coffeemaker, including electric percolators, of course, (Ask for medium-fine grind for electrics).

Custom-Grinding means a little extra work for us and a little extra time for you. (It takes 15 seconds to grind a pound).

But what a difference in flavor those few seconds make.

You know, there's only one reason we insist on selling custom-ground bean coffees... WE CARE.

Uses wanted for underground mine water

By WILLIAM E. DEIBLER
HARRISBURG (AP) — If state mine officials can come up with a way to treat and use the anthracite "regions" vast underground water supply, what now appears to be a disaster could turn out to be an economic benefit.

At least that's the view of Dr. H. Beecher Charnbury, secretary of mines and mineral industries, who has had a king-size problem on his hands since the Blue Coal Corp. stopped pumping water from five mines near Wilkes-Barre, Luzerne County, early in October.

"The main thing that could come out of this," Charnbury said, "is a process to make this water usable. This is a terrific waste of one of our most precious natural resources."

Charnbury believes one answer might be a demineralization plant capable of treating up to 50 million gallons of mine drainage water a day. If harmful substances, such as acid, could be removed from the water, it would be suitable for private and commercial use.

Earlier this year, the state announced plans to build such a demineralization plant near Altoona. Charnbury said the same firm which has contracted to build the Altoona plant, Westhouse, has been asked to investigate the possibilities of building a larger plant in the Wilkes-Barre area.

But a demineralization plant is years away, and something has to be done at once to keep the rising water from causing damage by pollution, flooding or subsidence.

That's why Charnbury's department has proposed a plan to free almost $3 million in federal-state funds to buy, install and operate shallow-well pumps to keep the mine water at a safe level in the Wilkes-Barre area. The money, Charnbury said, is part of an allocation made several years ago after the Knox mine disaster in which several miners were killed when the roof of a mine collapsed, letting in millions of gallons of Susquehanna River water. Legislation is needed to free the funds.

Charnbury stressed that no part of the money would be used to operate pumps for the Blue Coal Corp., or any other mining firm. In fact, the proposed bill that would free the funds stipulates that "under no circumstances may any funds be used" for such purposes.

Moreover, Charnbury pointed out that the pumps would not be used until water in the abandoned mines reaches 485 feet, more than 200 feet above the level at which all mining activity must be stopped.

"This isn't a subsidy for industry," Charnbury said, "this is a program designed to help people and prevent property damage."

Finally, Charnbury wants to dry up a major source of the underground water supply by plugging up the thousands of abandoned strip mines that mar the countryside in the anthracite regions.

The legislature, ultimately, must supply the answer.

Beds get bigger

Boom time in bedrooms

NEW YORK (AP) — Queen-size, king-size and king extra-long beds are crowding regular-size beds out of the bedroom.

That's the word from the National Association of Bedding Manufacturers which reports that 40 times as many big beds were sold last year as were sold 10 years ago.

The big beds accounted for 20 percent of sales last year against less than one half of one percent in 1957.

"Young couples aren't thinking of anything other than kings or queens," says Elaine Bornheimer, president of Hale's Bedding Stores, Inc., in New York City.

Why? People are bigger, they want to be more comfortable and the bigger bed is becoming a prestige item, according to the manufacturers.

Twenty per cent of American men are 6 feet tall or taller against only 4 per cent in 1960. Since 1960 the average man has become seven pounds heavier and the average woman 11 pounds heavier.

The standard double bed size is 54 by 75 inches. The queen is 60 by 80, the king 76 by 80 and the king extra long 76 by 84.

Manufacturers expect the interest in bigger beds to push sales this year over the $1 billion mark for the first time. Last year's sales were estimated at $950 million.

And there's another, though smaller, trend in the offing: odd-shaped beds. Among these are round beds and beds made in the shape of a heart, a piano and, for one Long Island couple that shopped at Hale's, a tear-drop.

Voice of Broadway

NEW YORK — Brig. Gen. Jimmy Stewart's Air Force reserve duty ends next month after 21 most honorable years . . . Israel's Levi Eshkol's wife charmed everyone she met, insisting, "Call me Miriam" . . . Cheetah's "Hair" soon will fall out (that's the rock-musical that is being brushed) . . . Red Skelton didn't have his foot in his mouth but busted the toe in the tub.

The CIA took a full-page ad (no kiddin') in the "Underground Digest," which digests, meaning it has a strong literary stomach, all the blue-prints from the smutty underground magazines . . . CIA pitched at graduates of accounting, biology, business, chemistry, cybernetics, etc. . . . Mayor John Lindsay's slight lip service is to Gov. Rockefeller but his backers say his heart belongs to Sen. Chuck Percy; if Rocky gets the GOP presidential nomination (he will) Lindsay would be out of Veeep-consideration, which could be possible if the Illinois dove flies in the Convention backdoor.

His mysterious injuries on the L.A. Freeway has singer Jimmie Rodgers conferring about suing the cops . . . Star of "The Invaders," Roy Thinnes, hired as his press agent — his mother-in-law . . . Aw-shucks singer Jimmy Dean joined the Okla. "Cowboy Hall of Fame" (Tom Mix, Ken Maynard, Buck Jones, etc.).

Katie Hepburn has big offers for an autobiography; which she'll probably pass up; her longtime romance died, she's rich, and hasn't been the type to chase sensation-for-cash . . . Harry Belafonte can have a summer-TV series.

Joan Crawford's 21-year-old Cathy weds Navyman Jerome La Lond in Aug. Patricia Lewis will file in London . . . Jackie Vernon stars at Upstairs at the Downstairs for five weeks while Joan Rivers has her baby. Joan still was yodking it up there as we two-fingered off to press.

Mia Farrow told landlady Anita Louise her dogs chewed the holes in the rugs & chairs; it's pay or be sued . . . With temperature at zero, Guy Lombardo started auditioning for his next summer "South Pacific" production at Jones Beach.

Grisly irony: Otis Redding's idol was the late Sam Cooke, who also died violently; he said in interviews he wanted to become "another Sam Cooke;" his last recording included "Shake," Cooke's last single; and his death came on the 3rd anniversary of Cooke's death! . . . Pays to be nastily talented: Walter Mathau gets $475,000 to be chased by Barbara Streisand in the "Hello, Dolly" film.

MGM tells us Sidney Poitier not only gets $750,000 for "Guess Who's Coming to Dinner," but wears his "first custom made suits on screen" (Gee!) . . . Howard Hughes only has to buy a few more acres and another gambling joint or two in Vegas and he gets his own senator . . . The U.S. snacks up 150 million lbs. of potato chips annually.

Group of lawyers will make a public holler about Lindsay arresting traffic and parking violators galore while cops are needed to fight crime . . . Pulse pollsters throbbed through the 18 N.Y. area counties (in N.Y., N.J. & Conn.) and concluded the Negro population therein totals 1,922,500.

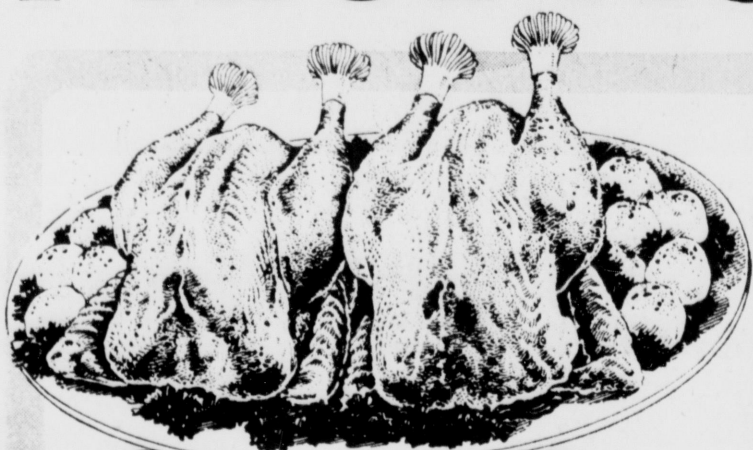

Patti Page & manager Jack Rael celebrated 21 years of 50-50 partnership — without a contract; made them both millionaires many years ago . . . 20th-Fox bought six incoming & current Bdwy. shows for films: "Hello, Dolly," "Staircase," "The Prime of Miss Jean Brodie," "Everything in the Garden," "The Only Game in Town," and "The Flip Side." . . . Bdwy's biggest buyer of live talent today — Eddie Rismann of the Loews Hotels—$5,500,000 for entertainments in 13 hotels.

Margaret Truman's headed for summer theatre again . . . Hardly a newsreel's around any more but when Charles the Gall's shown, he's hissed almost as enthusiastically as Hitler once was . . . Charles Lindbergh's son Jon is one of the highest paid professional skin-divers — up to $16 a minute.

Boston Red Sox hero Carl Yastrzemski and Dallas quarterback Don Meredith do so much TV they had to join the performers union (AFTRA) . . . There's a TV actor named "Ruff Diamond" . . . We always thought an ideal name for one of those arty-Method posers would be "Rex Oedipus."

Ann Landers

Reader feels insulted

Dear Ann Landers: What gives you the right to insult people and call it "advice?" Through the years you have printed several cruel and hurtful letters about fat people but the last one really got to me. The notion that a woman would eat herself out of shape in order to discourage her husband's love making was plain crazy. I nearly gagged when you agreed with the nose sister-in-law that her hunch might be right.

It's time we fat people stood up for ourselves. I say to you, Ann Landers, and to others who can't resist the vicious barbs, leave us alone. Our size is a highly personal matter. If we'd rather eat and enjoy life than walk around halfstarved, mean, and skinny, whose business is it?

I've seen pictures of you, but only the head. I wonder what the rest of you looks like. It wouldn't surprise me if you are a fat lady who is trying to fool people by printing anti-fat letters.

I know you'll never publish this one but I feel better for having written it.

WELL, UPOLSTERED AND NOT ASHAMED

Dear Well Upholstered: Now that you feel better, go make a batch of fudge and reward yourself for telling me off.

Dear Ann Landers: My husband has three brothers, a sister, an ex-wife and six children by that marriage. When he and his wife were divorced he gave her everything she asked for and has been Johnny-on-the-Spot with the support checks for several years.

Not one member of his family has shown the slightest interest in this man even though he is diabetic and in poor health. He has never received so much as a card on his birthday.

When he used to call his children on the telephone they hung up in his ear. He doesn't call them any more.

When my husband passes away I will have to make the burial arrangements. Should I notify his relatives? He has asked that I not do so. What is my duty?

A HOUSE DIVIDED

Dear H. D.: Your husband's wishes should take precedence over custom, since it is obvious that he is not considered a member of the family. When he passes away, notify the newspaper. His relatives will learn of his death and will come to the funeral if they wish to.

Dear Ann Landers: Our daughter is 18 and in her first year of college. Judith is an attractive girl, a reasonably bright student, has a nice figure and always dated fine young men when she was in high school.

When Judith came home for the holidays she announced that she is in love with a 28-year-old college student who is divorced and has four children. He told her some dreadful things about his ex-wife which makes me wonder why he allowed her to keep the children. Also, how can he go pay support money and go to college when he has only a part-time job? So many things do not add up that I am frightened out of my wits that he is a four-flusher.

I always thought our daughter was a level-headed, foot-on-the-ground type but I was mistaken. How should I handle this situation?

Dear S. L. C.: You have undoubtedly let Judith know how you feel about the young man. Now cool it and keep quiet. If all the mothers who propelled their daughters into poor marriages by nagging were laid end to end they'd reach from here to maternity.

Dear Ann Landers: I just read the letter from the girl who is 5' 11" and can't find an interesting guy who is tall enough for her. The shrimps seem to be the ones who make her feel alive mentally. I have a story that might point the girl in the right direction.

Aunt Nora was a divorcee with three sons to raise. She was no beauty and nearly 5' 7". Aunt Nora met a man who was 4' 11". They fell in love and married.

The two of them were a mighty odd-looking couple. People often turned around just to catch another glimpse of them. The whole family thought she was nuts.

It's been six years since they married and I have never known a happier couple. They have the baby girl they both wanted so much and the three boys are growing up to be wonderful young men. What's more, the whole family adores "the runt" and feel Aunt Nora was lucky to get him.

WISER NOW

Dear Wiser: Thanks for letting us know where Aunt Nora's good sense led her. People who marry for appearance's sake learn quite promptly that those they were trying to impress were not worth the trouble.

If you have trouble getting along with your parents ... If you can't get them to let you live your own life, send for Ann Landers' booklet, "Bugged By Parents? How to Get More Freedom." Send 50 cents in coin with your request and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope.

DEAR CY: I took my 1968 model car to a bump shop after an accident and found it was already rusting in places. The man who runs the shop says, "It's something they have never licked yet." I doubt now that my car will ever wear out but will first rust out. Probably the rusting will cause me to sell the car before it goes out of style.

ROY S.

Auto corrosion loss in the United States is estimated at 5 billion dollars annually. Car Life magazine says: "In the snow belt of North America, or along the southeast coast, or anywhere within smelling distance of the Gulf of Mexico, at least $100 is lost every year on every automobile." The publication claims, "That is an extremely conservative estimate." Well it might be. Not only do salt, snow, water and slush take their toll in rust, but industrial fall-out is looming more and more ominous in auto deterioration.

Despite claims auto makers have no interest whatsoever in rust prevention, they do conduct research and testing on the costly problem. Nevertheless, counterbalanced with other factors, perhaps of greater importance to motor vehicle owners. For instance, buyers of both cars and trucks are interested in cost and fascinated by styling. Styling demands boxed-in sections where moisture can be harbored. Since most rust begins on the inside and works its way out, surface protectants can do only half the job. There is also the matter of protecting a car through better paint bonding.

New painting processes (electrophoretic) tend to reduce use of phosphate coatings for corrosion protection. Unless you wish to spend around $50 to have your car rustproofed, Roy, I suggest you do as Car Life magazine urges: "Keep it clean." That's another way of saying Keep your car in the garage and ride a bicycle.

6♥	7♣	Pass	Pass

Opening lead — nine of clubs. This hand comes from a team match. South might have stopped by the wayside to double seven clubs (down 1,100), but he went all out trying to score the 2,210-point grand slam.

The contract would have been laydown had North had the queen of spades among his souvenirs, but, with the queen missing, declarer had his work cut out for him.

There were two ways of playing the hand. South could ruff the club in dummy, draw trumps, and then stake his all on guessing the location of the queen of spades, which was messable in either direction. This method would succeed if declarer played East for the queen.

But South came to the conclusion that he did not know enough about the structure of the adverse hands to risk an early guess for the queen. Instead he embarked on a method of play designed to force the defenders to reveal their distribution, after which he hoped to be in a better position to locate the missing damsel.

He crossruffed the hand, in alternating order he trumped four clubs in dummy and four diamonds in his hand. He then cashed the A-Q of hearts.

Ten tricks having been played, dummy had the K-J-9 of spades and declarer the A-10-3. The time for decision had come. Where was the queen of spades?

In the course of the play, East having shown out on the fourth round of diamonds, and West having failed on the fourth round of clubs, declarer knew that West had started with six diamonds, three clubs and two hearts. West therefore became marked with precisely two spades, which in turn meant that East had three.

Since the hand with the greater number of spades was more likely to have the queen among them, South led a spade to the king and finessed the ten on the return, thus bringing home the vulnerable grand slam.

Phillipsburg man released from jail

STROUDSBURG — Michael Richard Schmidt, 25, of 358 Heckman St., Phillipsburg, N. J., Tuesday was released from Monroe County Jail after posting $1,100 bail.

Schmidt was arrested Sunday by Stroudsburg Borough Police and charged with assault and battery, resisting arrest, and disorderly conduct.

Police filed the resisting arrest and disorderly charges. Mrs. Gladys Slack of 512 Scott St., Stroudsburg, filed the assault and battery charge.

Enters home According to police Schmidt entered the unlocked home of Mrs. Slack Sunday at 7:55 a. m., and walked into the bedroom of Mrs. Slack's mother.

After ordering him out of the house, police said, Schmidt became abusive to Mrs. Slack and police officers were called to the scene.

Schmidt will be given a hearing Friday at 2:30 p. m. before Stroudsburg Justice of the Peace Floyd W. Kellogg.

K of C elects new slate of officers

STROUDSBURG — The Father Butler Council, Knights of Columbus, elected Truman T. Burnett as president at the Knights' home in Stroud Twp. Burnett, Stroudsburg monument dealer, succeeds Bernard Frantz, East Stroudsburg school teacher and Stroudsburg Area School Board member, who was elected secretary.

Anthony Gwiazdowski was elected vice president, and John A. Sweeney Jr., as treasurer. Richard B. Wolbert and James T. Ogden were reappointed to the home association board of directors. Anthony F. Archer was named as a new board member.

The council received a letter of thanks from John H. Murray, gunnery sergeant and communications chief, stationed in Vietnam. Murray's platoon was one of those which received Christmas gifts from the council.

Appeal made over horse

EASTON — A Wind Gap, R.D. 1, man has appealed to the Northampton County Court from a justice of the peace ruling awarding $75 damage to a neighbor for damages caused by a horse.

Josef Hofmann last Nov. 7 filed a complaint with Wind Gap Justice of the Peace Stanley F. Snyder asserting that a horse owned by Robert G. Kemmerer, a neighbor, trampled Hofmann's newly made lawn and pulled out shrubbery and trees.

Your Horoscope By Francis Drake

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — Are you putting your talents to their best use? Speed of effort not as important as consistency.

April 21 to May 21 (Taurus) — There's more than one way to tackle and manage a problem. If your first try is not successful, try again. And with better methods and stronger purpose.

May 22 to June 21 (Gemini) — Observe others' methods, how and why they think and act as they do. A little serious observation could be worth a great deal. Some good opportunities in the office.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer) — New friends should not discount you. If you overplay your hand, you could lose out on returns for your efforts.

July 24 to August 23 (Leo) — Consolidate your position; expand where it is warranted. And be calm, tending day's chores adequately, without undue concern. Complete assigned tasks on time.

August 24 to September 23 (Virgo) — A desire to reach beyond your limitations could unhinge nerves and disposition, cause disruption of a smooth schedule.

September 24 to October 23 (Libra) — Observe the rules as closely as your mind allows. Be diligent, and better. Much depends upon your will and general behavior. Avoid dissension.

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio) — Here is a special chance for you to display your ingenuity, quick wit, and ability to draw others out, make them feel good.

And all kind deeds will be appreciated.

November 23 to December 21 (Sagittarius) — Mostly favorable influences. Do not let pressures or tensions hamper steady, well-founded action. Especially favored. Business and organizational affairs.

December 22 to January 20 (Capricorn) — Remember how many varied temperaments are involved in any project and you won't be surprised how so many divergent opinions could be expressed on the same subject. Listening to all sides could prove illuminating.

January 21 to February 19 (Aquarius) — Remember how many varied temperaments are involved in any project and you won't be surprised how so many divergent opinions could be expressed on the same subject. Listening to all sides could prove illuminating.

February 20 to March 20 (Pisces) — Tolerance, being kindly disposed and understanding of the difficulties of others will be a big help during this advantageous but also tricky period. Shun excesses.

MARCH 21 TO APRIL 20 (Aries) — You're ROYAL TODAY are articulate, often uniquely original, yet can follow orders capably. Undesired results quickly. You waste little time with the unnecessary, may even be too short on the long run. You are independent, love life, are ready for action at all times. Whatever you do, you do it well. You are of thin seems possible. You make stimulating fiction writers, statesman, with vision and fair-mindedness. Birthdate of Daniel Webster, Early American statesman, orator.

other small cars make.

Where traffic's heavy but rolling, and trucks are throwing their weight around, it's not the ideal place for small cars to make time.

But the SAAB V-4 is no ordinary small car. It is out of the ordinary because it has front-wheel drive. So it doesn't push you around like others do. It pulls you around corners, curves, and other drivers' mistakes (Most ordinary small cars don't give, even as options, all the standard SAAB safety features.)

As an optional extra, our new V-4

engine has a LIFETIME GUARANTEE.

SAAB

BAYLOR MOTORS

Where traffic's heavy but rolling, and trucks are throwing their weight around, it's not the ideal place for small cars to make time.
But the SAAB V-4 is no ordinary small car. It is out of the ordinary because it has front-wheel drive. So it doesn't push you around like others do. It pulls you around corners, curves, and other drivers' mistakes (Most ordinary small cars don't give, even as options, all the standard SAAB safety features.)
As an optional extra, our new V-4
engine has a LIFETIME GUARANTEE.
